The Tragedy of Romeo and Juliet
Drama by William Shakespeare

Is LOVE stronger than HATE?

It sounds like a story ripped from the tabloids. Two teenagers fall in love at a party. Then they learn that their parents hate each other. The teenagers’ love is forbidden, so not surprisingly, they cling to each other even more tightly. Murder and suffering ensue, and by the end, a whole town is in mourning. What love can—and cannot—overcome is at the heart of Romeo and Juliet, considered by many to be the greatest love story of all time.

DEBATE People say that love conquers all. Is this statement true, or is it just a cliché? How powerful is love? Discuss this topic in a small group. Talk about instances in which love has brought people together as well as times when hate has driven them apart. Then form two teams and debate the age-old question, is love stronger than hate?
TEXT ANALYSIS: SHAKESPEAREAN DRAMA

You can probably guess that a tragedy isn’t going to end with the words “and they all lived happily ever after.” Shakespearean tragedies are dramas that end in disaster—most often death—for the main characters. The conflicts in a tragedy are usually set in motion by the main characters’ actions, but fate can also play a part in the catastrophic course of events. As you read Romeo and Juliet, pay attention to specific characteristics of Shakespearean drama.

- Notice how soliloquies and asides enhance your understanding of the drama. These conventions allow characters to “think out loud”—often revealing information about their private thoughts.
- Watch for and analyze allusions. Once you decode them, they add an extra layer of meaning to certain passages.
- Consider Shakespeare’s use of comic relief to ease the tension of certain scenes. Think of the comic episodes as brief breaks that allow you to absorb earlier events in the plot and get ready for new developments.
- Pay attention to the rhythm of each line. Shakespeare wrote his plays in blank verse, a poetic form that resembles the rhythm of natural speech.

READING STRATEGY: READING SHAKESPEAREAN DRAMA

Though his plays can sweep you away, Shakespeare’s English is sometimes hard for modern readers to understand. These strategies can help:

- Read the synopsis, or summary, of each scene to get an idea of what happens in that part of the play.
- Use the marginal notes to figure out the meanings of unfamiliar words, unusual grammatical structures, and allusions.
- Keep track of events to make the plot easier to follow. All the events in Romeo and Juliet take place in six days. As you read, use a chart to record plot developments and interactions between characters.

Overview

Act One
We meet the Montagues and the Capulets, two long-feuding families in the Italian city of Verona. At the beginning of the play, Romeo, a Montague, is in love with Rosaline. Juliet, a Capulet, is asked by her parents to consider marrying Paris. Romeo and Juliet meet at a masked ball and fall in love, each later realizing that the other is from the enemy family.

Act Two
Forced to meet in secret, Romeo and Juliet declare their love to each other and decide to get married. Romeo visits Friar Laurence, a priest, and asks him to perform the wedding. Aided by Juliet’s nurse, Romeo and Juliet meet and marry in secret.

Act Three
During a street fight, Juliet’s cousin Tybalt kills Romeo’s friend Mercutio. Romeo loses his temper and kills Tybalt; he then flees, realizing with horror what he has done. Romeo is banished from Verona under pain of death. Juliet grieves the double loss of her cousin and her husband. With the help of Friar Laurence and the nurse, Romeo and Juliet make plans to flee to Mantua, another city. Her parents, not knowing she is already married to Romeo, order her to marry Paris.

Act Four
A distraught Juliet visits Friar Laurence for help and threatens to kill herself. He gives her a potion that will not kill her but put her into a deathlike sleep for two days, with the plan that Romeo will rescue her from the family tomb when she awakens. Friar Laurence sends a letter to Romeo in Mantua, describing this plan. Juliet takes the potion. Her family finds her and prepares her burial, believing her dead.

Act Five
Romeo does not get Friar Laurence’s letter before he hears of Juliet’s death and believes it is real. Grief stricken, he returns to Verona. He finds Juliet in her deathlike sleep, takes real poison, and dies. Juliet awakens and, finding Romeo dead, kills herself with his dagger. When the families realize what has happened, Lord Capulet and Lord Montague agree to end their feud.

One Play, Many Productions
The images at the top of page 1037 capture five different interpretations of Romeo and Juliet. Though the productions were staged at different times in different countries, each director had the same goal: to thrill audiences with Shakespeare’s timeless tale of two reckless, lovesick teenagers. As you read the play, you will discover many more images from a variety of productions. You’ll also encounter Behind the Curtain feature pages that will help you explore the stagecraft used to create moving theatrical productions of this famous play.

1036  UNIT 10: SHAKESPEAREAN DRAMA
Prologue

The Chorus is one actor who serves as a narrator. He enters from the back of the stage to introduce and explain the theme of the play. His job is to “hook” the audience’s interest by telling them just enough to quiet them down and make them eager for more. In this prologue, or preview, the narrator explains that the play will be about a feud between two families (the Capulets and the Montagues). In addition, the narrator says that the feud will end in tragedy. As you read the prologue, determine what the tragedy will be.

[Enter Chorus.]

Chorus. Two households, both alike in dignity,
In fair Verona, where we lay our scene,
From ancient grudge break to new mutiny,
Where civil blood makes civil hands unclean.

From forth the fatal loins of these two foes,
A pair of star-crossed lovers take their life,
Whose misadventured piteous overthrows
Doth with their death bury their parents’ strife.
The fearful passage of their death-marked love,
And the continuance of their parents’ rage,
Which, but their children’s end, naught could remove,
Is now the two hours’ traffic of our stage,
The which if you with patient ears attend,
What here shall miss, our toil shall strive to mend.

[Exit.]
Act One

Scene 1
A public square in Verona.

As the scene opens, two young Capulet servants swagger across the stage, joking and bragging. When they happen to meet servants from the rival house of Montague, a quarrel begins that grows into an ugly street fight. Finally the ruler of Verona, Prince Escalus, appears. He is angry about the violence in his city and warns that the next offenders will receive the death penalty. The crowd fades away, and the stage is set for the entrance of Romeo, heir of the Montague family. Romeo, infatuated and miserable, can talk of nothing but his love for Rosaline and her cruelty in refusing to love him back.

[Enter Sampson and Gregory, servants of the house of Capulet, armed with swords and bucklers (shields).]

Sampson. Gregory, on my word, we'll not carry coals.

Gregory. No, for then we should be colliers.

Sampson. I mean, an we be in choler, we'll draw.

Gregory. Ay, while you live, draw your neck out of collar.

Sampson. I strike quickly, being moved.

Gregory. But thou art not quickly moved to strike.

Sampson. A dog of that house of Montague moves me.

Gregory. To move is to stir, and to be valiant is to stand. Therefore, if thou art moved, thou runnest away.

Sampson. A dog of that house shall move me to stand. I will take the wall of any man or maid of Montague's.

Gregory. That shows thee a weak slave, for the weakest goes to the wall.

Sampson. 'Tis true; and therefore women, being the weaker vessels, are ever thrust to the wall. Therefore push I will Montague's men from the wall and thrust his maids to the wall.

Gregory. The quarrel is between our masters and us their men.

Sampson. 'Tis all one. I will show myself a tyrant. When I have fought with the men, I will be cruel with the maids: I will cut off their heads.

Gregory. The heads of the maids?

Sampson. Ay, the heads of the maids, or their maidenheads. Take it in what sense thou wilt.

Gregory. They must take it in sense that feel it.

1–2  we'll not carry coals: we won't stand to be insulted. Colliers, those involved in the dirty work of hauling coal, were often the butt of jokes.

3–4  in choler: angry; collar: a hangman's noose.

11  take the wall: walk nearest to the wall. People of higher rank had the privilege of walking closer to the wall, to avoid any water or garbage in the street. What claim is Sampson making about himself and anyone from the rival house of Montague?

14–24  Sampson's tough talk includes boasts about his ability to overpower women.

Romeo and Juliet in the Anželika Cholina Dance Theatre's 2003 production
Sampson. Me they shall feel while I am able to stand; and ’tis known I am a pretty piece of flesh.

Gregory. ’Tis well thou art not fish; if thou hadst, thou hadst been poor-John. Draw thy tool! Here comes two of the house of Montagues.

[Enter Abram and Balthasar, servants to the Montagues.]

Sampson. My naked weapon is out. Quarrel! I will back thee.

Gregory. How? turn thy back and run?

Sampson. Fear me not.

Gregory. No, marry. I fear thee!

Sampson. Let us take the law of our sides; let them begin.

Gregory. I will frown as I pass by, and let them take it as they list.

Sampson. Nay, as they dare. I will bite my thumb at them; which is disgrace to them, if they bear it.

Abram. Do you bite your thumb at us, sir?

Sampson. I do bite my thumb, sir.

Gregory. Do you quarrel, sir?

Abram. Quarrel, sir? No, sir.

Sampson. But if you do, sir, I am for you. I serve as good a man as you.

Abram. No better.

Sampson. Well, sir.

[Enter Benvolio, nephew of Montague and first cousin of Romeo.]

Gregory [aside to Sampson]. Say “better.” Here comes one of my master’s kinsmen.

Sampson. Yes, better, sir.

Abram. You lie.

[They fight.]

28 poor-John: a salted fish, considered fit only for poor people to eat.

33 marry: a short form of “by the Virgin Mary” and so a mild exclamation.

34–44 Gregory and Sampson decide to pick a fight by insulting the Montague servants with a rude gesture (bite my thumb).

A SARCASM
Sarcasm is an ironic remark often used to convey an insult. In this instance, Sampson is being sarcastic by telling Abram and Balthasar he is not quarreling, or starting a fight, when he is clearly doing just that. Does including sarcasm in this scene make the dialogue more realistic? Explain.

51–52 Gregory notices that Tybalt, a Capulet, is arriving. Why do you think Gregory and Sampson behave more aggressively as soon as they realize that Tybalt is approaching?

B ASIDE
Contrast what the servants say openly in lines 35–56 with what they say in asides, or whispers to each other. What does this contrast reveal about Sampson and Gregory?
[Enter Tybalt, hot-headed nephew of Lady Capulet and first cousin of Juliet.]

Tybalt. What, art thou drawn among these heartless hinds?

Benvolio. I do but keep the peace. Put up thy sword, Or manage it to part these men with me.

Tybalt. What, drawn, and talk of peace? I hate the word As I hate hell, all Montagues, and thee.

Have at thee, coward!

[They fight.]

[Enter several of both houses, who join the fray; then enter Citizens and Peace Officers, with clubs.]

Officer. Clubs, bills, and partisans! Strike! beat them down!

Citizens. Down with the Capulets! Down with the Montagues!

[Enter old Capulet and Lady Capulet.]

Capulet. What noise is this? Give me my long sword, ho!

Lady Capulet. A crutch, a crutch! Why call you for a sword?

Capulet. My sword, I say! Old Montague is come And flourishes his blade in spite of me.

[Enter old Montague and Lady Montague.]

Montague. Thou villain Capulet!—Hold me not, let me go.

Lady Montague. Thou shalt not stir one foot to seek a foe.

[Enter Prince Escalus, with attendants. At first no one hears him.]

Prince. Rebellious subjects, enemies to peace,

Profaners of this neighbor-stained steel—

Will they not hear? What, ho! you men, you beasts,

That quench the fire of your pernicious rage

With purple fountains issuing from your veins!

On pain of torture, from those bloody hands

Throw your mistempered weapons to the ground

And hear the sentence of your moved prince.

Three civil brawls, bred of an airy word

By thee, old Capulet, and Montague,

Have thrice disturbed the quiet of our streets

And made Verona’s ancient citizens

Cast by their grave beseeming ornaments

To wield old partisans, in hands as old,

Cankered with peace, to part your cankered hate.

If ever you disturb our streets again,

Your lives shall pay the forfeit of the peace.
For this time all the rest depart away.
You, Capulet, shall go along with me;
And, Montague, come you this afternoon,
To know our farther pleasure in this case,
To old Freetown, our common judgment place.
Once more, on pain of death, all men depart.

[Exeunt all but Montague, Lady Montague, and Benvolio.]

Montague. Who set this ancient quarrel new abroach?
Speak, nephew, were you by when it began?

Benvolio. Here were the servants of your adversary
And yours, close fighting ere I did approach.
I drew to part them. In the instant came
The fiery Tybalt, with his sword prepared;
Which, as he breathed defiance to my ears,
He swung about his head and cut the winds,
Who, nothing hurt withal, hissed him in scorn.
While we were interchanging thrusts and blows,
Came more and more, and fought on part and part,
Till the Prince came, who parted either part.

Lady Montague. O, where is Romeo? Saw you him today?
Right glad I am he was not at this fray.

Benvolio. Madam, an hour before the worshiped sun
Peered forth the golden window of the East,
A troubled mind drave me to walk abroad,
Where, underneath the grove of sycamore
That westward rooteth from the city’s side,
So early walking did I see your son.
Towards him I made, but he was ware of me
And stole into the covert of the wood.
I—measuring his affections by my own,
Which then most sought where most might not be found,
Being one too many by my weary self—
Pursued my humor, not pursuing his,
And gladly shunned who gladly fled from me.

Montague. Many a morning hath he there been seen,
With tears augmenting the fresh morning’s dew,
Adding to clouds more clouds with his deep sighs;
But all so soon as the all-cheering sun
Should in the farthest East begin to draw
The shady curtains from Aurora’s bed,
Away from light steals home my heavy son
And private in his chamber pens himself,
Shuts up his windows, locks fair daylight out,
And makes himself an artificial night.
Black and portentous must this humor prove Unless good counsel may the cause remove.

Benvolio. My noble uncle, do you know the cause?
Montague. I neither know it nor can learn of him.
Benvolio. Have you importuned him by any means?
Montague. Both by myself and many other friends;
But he, his own affections’ counselor,
Is to himself—I will not say how true—
But to himself so secret and so close,
So far from sounding and discovery,
As is the bud bit with an envious worm
Ere he can spread his sweet leaves to the air
Or dedicate his beauty to the sun.
Could we but learn from whence his sorrows grow,
We would as willingly give cure as know.

[Enter Romeo lost in thought.]

Benvolio. See, where he comes. So please you step aside,
I’ll know his grievance, or be much denied.
Montague. I would thou wert so happy by thy stay
To hear true shrift. Come, madam, let’s away.

[Exeunt Montague and Lady.]

Benvolio. Good morrow, cousin.

Romeo. Is the day so young?

Benvolio. But new struck nine.

Romeo. Ay me! sad hours seem long.

Benvolio. It was. What sadness lengthens Romeo’s hours?

Romeo. Not having that which having makes them short.

Benvolio. In love?

Romeo. Out—

Benvolio. Of love?

Romeo. Out of her favor where I am in love.

Benvolio. Alas that love, so gentle in his view,
Should be so tyrannous and rough in proof!

Romeo. Alas that love, whose view is muffled still,
Should without eyes see pathways to his will!
Where shall we dine?—O me! What fray was here?—
Yet tell me not, for I have heard it all.
Here’s much to do with hate, but more with love.
Why then, O brawling love! O loving hate!
O anything, of nothing first create!
O heavy lightness! serious vanity!
Misshapen chaos of well-seeming forms!
Feather of lead, bright smoke, cold fire, sick health!
Still-waking sleep, that is not what it is!
This love feel I, that feel no love in this.
Dost thou not laugh?
Benvolio. No, coz, I rather weep.
Romeo. Good heart, at what?
Benvolio. At thy good heart’s oppression.
Romeo. Why, such is love’s transgression.
Griefs of mine own lie heavy in my breast,
Which thou wilt propagate, to have it prest
With more of thine. This love that thou hast shown
Doth add more grief to too much of mine own.
Love is a smoke raised with the fume of sighs;
Being purged, a fire sparkling in lovers’ eyes;
Being vexed, a sea nourished with lovers’ tears.
What is it else? A madness most discreet,
A choking gall, and a preserving sweet.
Farewell, my coz.
Benvolio. Soft! I will go along.
An if you leave me so, you do me wrong.
Romeo. Tut! I have lost myself; I am not here:
This is not Romeo, he’s some other where.
Benvolio. Tell me in sadness, who is that you love?
Romeo. What, shall I groan and tell thee?
Benvolio. Groan? Why, no;
But sadly tell me who.
Romeo. Bid a sick man in sadness make his will.
Ah, word ill urged to one that is so ill!
In sadness, cousin, I do love a woman.
Benvolio. I aimed so near when I supposed you loved.
Romeo. A right good markman! And she’s fair I love.
Benvolio. A right fair mark, fair coz, is soonest hit.
Romeo. Well, in that hit you miss. She’ll not be hit
With Cupid’s arrow. She hath Dian’s wit,
And, in strong proof of chastity well armed,
From Love’s weak childish bow she lives unharmed.

168–176 Romeo, confused and upset, tries to describe his feelings about love. He uses phrases like “loving hate” and other contradictory expressions.

176–182 Benvolio expresses his sympathy for Romeo. Romeo replies that this is one more problem caused by love. He now feels worse than before because he must carry the weight of Benvolio’s sympathy along with his own grief.

184 purged: cleansed (of the smoke).
185 vexed: troubled.
187 gall: something causing bitterness or hate.
188 Soft: Wait a minute.
192 sadness: seriousness.

201–204 She’ll . . . unharmed: The girl isn’t interested in falling in love. She is like Diana, the goddess of chastity, who fended off Cupid’s arrows.
Casting

Even plays as timeless as Shakespearean dramas need powerful performances to bring them to life. Examine these photographs, and think about the choices the directors made when casting, or selecting, the pairs of actors for the roles of Juliet and Romeo. If you were in charge of casting a production of Romeo and Juliet, which pair would you choose, and why?
She will not stay the siege of loving terms,
Nor bide the encounter of assailing eyes,
Nor ope her lap to saint-seducing gold.
O, she is rich in beauty; only poor
That, when she dies, with beauty dies her store.

Benvolio. Then she hath sworn that she will still live chaste?

Romeo. She hath, and in that sparing makes huge waste;
For beauty, starved with her severity,
Cuts beauty off from all posterity.
She is too fair, too wise, wisely too fair,
To merit bliss by making me despair.
She hath forsworn to love, and in that vow
Do I live dead that live to tell it now.

Benvolio. Be ruled by me: forget to think of her.

Romeo. O, teach me how I should forget to think!

Benvolio. By giving liberty unto thine eyes:
Examine other beauties.

Romeo. 'Tis the way
To call hers (exquisite) in question more.
These happy masks that kiss fair ladies' brows,
Being black, puts us in mind they hide the fair.

He that is strucken blind cannot forget
The precious treasure of his eyesight lost.
Show me a mistress that is passing fair,
What doth her beauty serve but as a note
Where I may read who passed that passing fair?

Farewell. Thou canst not teach me to forget.

Benvolio. I'll pay that doctrine, or else die in debt.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE 2  A street near the Capulet house.

This scene opens with Count Paris, a young nobleman, asking Capulet for permission to marry his daughter, Juliet. Capulet says that Juliet is too young but gives Paris permission to court her and try to win her heart. He also invites Paris to a party he is giving that night.

Romeo finds out about the party and discovers that Rosaline, the girl who rejected him, will be present. Benvolio urges Romeo to go to the party to see how Rosaline compares with the other women.

[Enter Capulet with Paris, a kinsman of the Prince, and Servant.]

Capulet. But Montague is bound as well as I,
In penalty alike; and 'tis not hard, I think,
For men so old as we to keep the peace.
Paris. Of honorable reckoning are you both,
And pity 'tis you lived at odds so long.
But now, my lord, what say you to my suit?

Capulet. But saying o'er what I have said before:
My child is yet a stranger in the world,
She hath not seen the change of fourteen years;
Let two more summers wither in their pride
Ere we may think her ripe to be a bride.

Paris. Younger than she are happy mothers made.

Capulet. And too soon marred are those so early made.
The earth hath swallowed all my hopes but she;
She is the hopeful lady of my earth.
But woo her, gentle Paris, get her heart;
My will to her consent is but a part.
An she agree, within her scope of choice
Lies my consent and fair according voice.

This night I hold an old accustomed feast,
Whereo I have invited many a guest,
Such as I love, and you among the store,
One more, most welcome, makes my number more.
At my poor house look to behold this night
Earth-treading stars that make dark heaven light.
Such comfort as do lusty young men feel
When well-apparelled April on the heel
Of limping Winter treads, even such delight
Among fresh female buds shall you this night
Inherit at my house. Hear all, all see,
And like her most whose merit most shall be;
Which, on more view of many, mine, being one,
May stand in number, though in reck’ning none.
Come, go with me. [to Servant, giving him a paper]
Go, sirrah, trudge about
Through fair Verona; find those persons out
Whose names are written there, and to them say,
My house and welcome on their pleasure stay.
[Exeunt Capulet and Paris.]

Servant. Find them out whose names are written here! It is written that the shoemaker should meddle with his yard and the tailor with his last, the fisher with his pencil and the painter with his nets; but I am sent to find those persons whose names are here writ, and can never find what names the writing person hath here writ. I must to the learned. In good time!

4 reckoning: reputation.

6 what say . . . suit: Paris is asking for Capulet's response to his proposal to marry Juliet.

10 let two more summers . . . pride:
let two more years pass.

14 The earth . . . she: All my children are dead except Juliet.

16 woo her: try to win her heart.

18–19 An . . . voice: I will give my approval to the one she chooses.

20 old accustomed feast: a traditional or annual party.

BLANK VERSE
Reread lines 16–19 aloud, tapping your foot at each stressed syllable.
How many stressed syllables are in each line?

29–33 among . . . none: Tonight at the party you will witness the loveliest young girls in Verona, including Juliet.
When you see all of them together, your opinion of Juliet may change.

34 sirrah: a term used to address a servant.

38–43 The servant cannot seek out the persons on the list because he cannot read. In his remarks he confuses the craftsmen and their tools, tapping a typical source of humor for Elizabethan comic characters.

43 In good time: What luck (a reference to the arrival of Romeo and Benvolio, who will be able to help the servant read the list).
[Enter Benvolio and Romeo.]

Benvolio. Tut, man, one fire burns out another’s burning;
One pain is lessened by another’s anguish;
Turn giddy, and be holp by backward turning;
One desperate grief cures with another’s languish.
Take thou some new infection to thy eye,
And the rank poison of the old will die.

Romeo. Your plantain leaf is excellent for that.

Benvolio. For what, I pray thee?

Romeo. For your broken shin.

Benvolio. Why, Romeo, art thou mad?

Romeo. Not mad, but bound more than a madman is;
Shut up in prison, kept without my food,
Whipped and tormented and—God-den, good fellow.

Servant. God gi’ go-den. I pray, sir, can you read?

Romeo. Ay, mine own fortune in my misery.

Servant. Perhaps you have learned it without book. But I pray, can you read anything you see?

Romeo. Ay, if I know the letters and the language.

Servant. Ye say honestly. Rest you merry!

[Roméo’s joking goes over the clown’s head. He concludes that Romeo cannot read and prepares to seek someone who can.]

Romeo. Stay, fellow; I can read. [He reads.]
“Signior Martino and his wife and daughters;
County Anselmo and his beauteous sisters;
The lady widow of Vitruvio;
Signior Placentio and his lovely nieces;
Mercutio and his brother Valentine;
Mine uncle Capulet, his wife, and daughters;
My fair niece Rosaline and Livia;
Signior Valentio and his cousin Tybalt;
Lucio and the lively Helena.”

[ Gives back the paper]
A fair assembly. Whither should they come?

Servant. Up.

Romeo. Whither?

Servant. To supper, to our house.

Romeo. Whose house?

Servant. My master’s.

Romeo. Indeed I should have asked you that before.
Servant. Now I’ll tell you without asking. My master is the great rich Capulet; and if you be not of the house of Montagues, I pray come and crush a cup of wine. Rest you merry!

[Exit.]

Benvolio. At this same ancient feast of Capulet’s Sups the fair Rosaline whom thou so lovest, With all the admired beauties of Verona.

Go thither, and with unattainted eye Compare her face with some that I shall show, And I will make thee think thy swan a crow.

Romeo. When the devout religion of mine eye Maintains such falsehood, then turn tears to fires; And these, who, often drowned, could never die, Transparent heretics, be burnt for liars! One fairer than my love? The all-seeing sun Ne’er saw her match since first the world begun.

Benvolio. Tut! you saw her fair, none else being by, Herself poised with herself in either eye; But in that crystal scales let there be weighed Your lady’s love against some other maid That I will show you shining at this feast, And she shall scant show well that now shows best.

Romeo. I’ll go along, no such sight to be shown, But to rejoice in splendor of mine own.

[Exeunt.]

Scene 3 Capulet’s house.

In this scene, you will meet Juliet, her mother, and her nurse. The nurse, a merry and slightly crude servant, has been in charge of Juliet since her birth. Once she starts talking, she can’t stop. Just before the party, Juliet’s mother asks if Juliet has thought about getting married. Lady Capulet is matchmaking, trying to convince her daughter that Paris would make a good husband. Juliet responds just as you might if your parents set up a blind date for you—without much enthusiasm.

[Enter Lady Capulet and Nurse.]

Lady Capulet. Nurse, where’s my daughter? Call her forth to me.

[Enter Juliet.]

Juliet. How now? Who calls?
Nurse. Your mother.

Juliet. Madam, I am here. What is your will?

Lady Capulet. This is the matter—Nurse, give leave awhile,
We must talk in secret. Nurse, come back again;
I have remembered me, thou’s hear our counsel.
Thou knowest my daughter’s of a pretty age.

Nurse. Faith, I can tell her age unto an hour.

Lady Capulet. She’s not fourteen.

Nurse. I’ll lay fourteen of my teeth—
And yet, to my teen be it spoken, I have but four—She’s not fourteen. How long is it now
To Lammastide?

Lady Capulet. A fortnight and odd days.

8–11 give leave . . . counsel: Lady Capulet seems flustered or nervous, not sure whether she wants the nurse to stay or leave; of a pretty age: of an attractive age, ready for marriage.

14 teen: sorrow.

16 Lammastide: August 1, a religious feast day. It is two weeks (a fortnight) away.

Juliet and her nurse in the 1994 production of the Shakespeare Theatre in Washington, D.C.
Nurse. Even or odd, of all days in the year,
Come Lammas Eve at night shall she be fourteen.
Susan and she (God rest all Christian souls!)
Were of an age. Well, Susan is with God;
She was too good for me. But, as I said,
On Lammas Eve at night shall she be fourteen;
That shall she, marry; I remember it well.
’Tis since the earthquake now eleven years;
And she was weaned (I never shall forget it),
Of all the days of the year, upon that day.
For I had then laid wormwood to my dug,
Sitting in the sun under the dovehouse wall.
My lord and you were then at Mantua—
Nay, I do bear a brain—But, as I said,
When it did taste the wormwood on the nipple
Of my dug and felt it bitter, pretty fool,
To see it tetchy and fall out with the dug!
Shake, quoth the dovehouse! ’Twas no need, I trow,
To bid me trudge.
And since that time it is eleven years,
For then she could stand alone; nay, by the rood,
She could have run and waddled all about;
For even the day before, she broke her brow;
And then my husband (God be with his soul!
’A was a merry man) took up the child.
“Yea,” quoth he, “dost thou fall upon thy face?
Thou wilt fall backward when thou has more wit,
Wilt thou not, Jule?” And, by my holidam,
The pretty wretch left crying, and said “Ay.”
To see now how a jest shall come about!
I warrant, an I should live a thousand years,
I never should forget it. “Wilt thou not, Jule?” quoth he,
And, pretty fool, it stinted, and said “Ay.”

Lady Capulet. Enough of this. I pray thee hold thy peace.
Nurse. Yes, madam. Yet I cannot choose but laugh
To think it should leave crying and say “Ay.”
And yet, I warrant, it had upon its brow
A bump as big as a young cock’rel’s stone;
A perilous knock; and it cried bitterly.
“Yea,” quoth my husband, “fallst upon thy face?
Thou wilt fall backward when thou comest to age,
Wilt thou not, Jule?” It stinted, and said “Ay.”

17–49 The nurse begins to babble about various memories of Juliet’s childhood. She talks of her own dead daughter, Susan, who was the same age as Juliet. Susan probably died in infancy, leaving the nurse available to become a wet nurse to (that is, breastfeed) Juliet. She remembers an earthquake that happened on the day she stopped breastfeeding Juliet (she was weaned).

27 laid wormwood to my dug: applied wormwood, a plant with a bitter taste, to her breast in order to discourage the child from breastfeeding.

33 tetchy: touchy; cranky.

34–35 Shake . . . trudge: When the dovehouse shook, I knew enough to leave.

37 by the rood: by the cross of Christ (a mild oath).

39 broke her brow: cut her forehead.

42–49 “Yea” . . . “Ay”: To quiet Juliet after her fall, the nurse’s husband made a crude joke, asking the baby whether she’d fall the other way (on her back) when she was older. Although at three Juliet didn’t understand the question, she stopped crying (stinted) and innocently answered “Yes.” The nurse finds the story so funny that she can’t stop retelling it.

55 perilous: hazardous; dangerous.
Juliet. And stint thou too, I pray thee, nurse, say I.

Nurse. Peace, I have done. God mark thee to his grace!
Thou wast the prettiest babe that e’er I nursed.
An I might live to see thee married once,
I have my wish.

Lady Capulet. Marry, that “marry” is the very theme
I came to talk of. Tell me, daughter Juliet,
How stands your disposition to be married?

Juliet. It is an honor that I dream not of.

Nurse. An honor? Were not I thine only nurse,
I would say thou hadst sucked wisdom from thy teat.

Lady Capulet. Well, think of marriage now. Younger than you,
Here in Verona, ladies of esteem,
Are made already mothers. By my count,
I was your mother much upon these years
That you are now a maid. Thus then in brief:
The valiant Paris seeks you for his love.

Nurse. A man, young lady! lady, such a man
As all the world—why he’s a man of wax.

Lady Capulet. Verona’s summer hath not such a flower.

Nurse. Nay, he’s a flower, in faith—a very flower.

Lady Capulet. What say you? Can you love the gentleman?
This night you shall behold him at our feast.
Read o’er the volume of young Paris’ face,
And find delight writ there with beauty’s pen;
Examine every several lineament,
And see how one another lends content;
And what obscured in this fair volume lies
Find written in the margent of his eyes.
This precious book of love, this unbound lover,
To beautify him only lacks a cover.
The fish lives in the sea, and ’tis much pride
For fair without the fair within to hide.
That book in many’s eyes doth share the glory,
That in gold clasps locks in the golden story;
So shall you share all that he doth possess,
By having him making yourself no less.

Lady Capulet. Speak briefly, can you like of Paris’ love?

Juliet. I’ll look to like, if looking liking move;
But no more deep will I endart mine eye.
Than your consent gives strength to make it fly.

[Enter a Servingman.]

Servingman. Madam, the guests are come, supper served up, you called, my young lady asked for, the nurse cursed in the pantry, and everything in extremity. I must hence to wait. I beseech you follow straight.

Lady Capulet. We follow thee. [Exit Servingman.] Juliet, the County stays.

Nurse. Go, girl, seek happy nights to happy days.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE 4  A street near the Capulet house.

It is the evening of the Capulet masque, or costume ball. Imagine the guests proceeding through the darkened streets with torches to light the way.

Romeo and his friends Mercutio and Benvolio join the procession. Their masks will prevent Romeo's and Benvolio's being recognized as Montagues. Mercutio and Benvolio are in a playful, partying mood, but Romeo is still depressed by his unanswered love for Rosaline. Romeo has also had a dream that warned him of the harmful consequences of this party. He senses trouble.

[Enter Romeo, Mercutio, Benvolio, with five or six other Maskers; Torchbearers.]

Romeo. What, shall this speech be spoke for our excuse? Or shall we on without apology?

Benvolio. The date is out of such prolixity. We'll have no Cupid hoodwinked with a scarf, Bearing a Tartar's painted bow of lath, Scaring the ladies like a crowkeeper; Nor no without-book prologue, faintly spoke After the prompter, for our entrance; But let them measure us by what they will, We'll measure them a measure, and be gone.

Romeo. Give me a torch. I am not for this ambling; Being but heavy, I will bear the light.

Mercutio. Nay, gentle Romeo, we must have you dance.

Romeo. Not I, believe me. You have dancing shoes With nimble soles; I have a soul of lead So stakes me to the ground I cannot move.

Mercutio. You are a lover. Borrow Cupid's wings And soar with them above a common bound.

Romeo. I am too sore enpierced with his shaft To soar with his light feathers, and so bound

---

TRAGEDY

How might Lady Capulet's desire for Juliet to marry Paris lead to conflict later in the play? Explain your answer.

103–104 extremity: great confusion; straight: immediately.

105 the County stays: Count Paris is waiting for you.

1–10 What, shall this . . . be gone: Romeo asks whether they should send a messenger announcing their arrival at the party. Benvolio replies that this custom is out of date. He says that they'll dance one dance with the partygoers (measure them a measure) and then leave.

12 heavy: sad. Romeo makes a joke based on the meanings of heavy and light.

14–32 Romeo continues to talk about his sadness, while Mercutio jokingly makes fun of him to try to cheer him up.
I cannot bound a pitch above dull woe.
Under love’s heavy burden do I sink.

Mercutio. And, to sink in it, should you burden love—
Too great oppression for a tender thing.

Romeo. Is love a tender thing? It is too rough,
Too rude, too boist’rous, and it pricks like thorn.

Mercutio. If love be rough with you, be rough with love.
Prick love for pricking, and you beat love down.
Give me a case to put my visage in.

A visor for a visor! What care I
What curious eye doth quote deformities?
Here are the beetle brows shall blush for me.

Benvolio. Come, knock and enter, and no sooner in
But every man betake him to his legs.

Romeo. A torch for me! Let wantons light of heart
Tickle the senseless rushes with their heels;
For I am proverbed with a grandsire phrase,
I’ll be a candle-holder and look on;
The game was ne’er so fair, and I am done.

Mercutio. Tut, dun’s the mouse, the constable’s own word!
If thou art Dun, we’ll draw thee from the mire
Of, save your reverence, love, wherein thou stickst
Up to the ears. Come, we burn daylight, ho!

Romeo. Nay, that’s not so.
Mercutio. I mean, sir, in delay
We waste our lights in vain, like lamps by day.
Take our good meaning, for our judgment sits
Five times in that ere once in our five wits.

Romeo. And we mean well in going to this masque;
But ’tis no wit to go.

Mercutio. Why, may one ask?

Romeo. I dreamt a dream tonight.

Mercutio. And so did I.

Romeo. Well, what was yours?

Mercutio. That dreamers often lie.

Romeo. In bed asleep, while they do dream things true.

Mercutio. O, then I see Queen Mab hath been with you.
She is the fairies’ midwife, and she comes
In shape no bigger than an agate stone
On the forefinger of an alderman,
Drawn with a team of little atomies

PUN Identify two puns in lines 11–22.
What effect do they have on the mood of this scene?

29–32 Give . . . for me: Give me a mask for an ugly face. I don’t care if people notice my appearance. Here, look at my bushy eyebrows.

34 betake . . . legs: dance.

35–38 Let . . . look on: Let playful people tickle the grass (rushes) on the floor with their dancing. I’ll follow the old saying (grandsire phrase) and just be a spectator.

40–43 Tut . . . daylight: Mercutio jokes, using various meanings of the word dun, which sounds like Romeo’s last word, done. He concludes by saying they should not waste time (burn daylight).

53–95 This famous speech is yet one more attempt by Mercutio to cheer up Romeo. He talks of Mab, queen of the fairies, a folktale character well-known to Shakespeare’s audience. His language includes vivid descriptions, puns, and satires of people; and ultimately he gets caught up in his own wild imaginings. It is not necessary to understand everything Mercutio says to recognize the beauty of this born storyteller’s tale.

55 agate stone: jewel for a ring.

57 atomies: tiny creatures.
Costume Design

Classic dramas such as Romeo and Juliet can be staged in many different ways. Costumes are one means of making a production distinctive. Think about the interpretations of the play pictured here. (Note: The middle shot is of Romeo and Juliet in the midst of the famous balcony scene, coming up in Act Two—and the ladder serves as the balcony!) How are the different costume choices in these photographs appropriate for the different productions?
Athwart men’s noses as they lie asleep;
Her wagon spokes made of long spinners’ legs,
The cover, of the wings of grasshoppers;
Her traces, of the smallest spider’s web;
Her collars, of the moonshine’s wat’ry beams;
Her whip, of cricket’s bone; the lash, of film;
Her wagoner, a small grey-coated gnat,
Not half so big as a round little worm
Pricked from the lazy finger of a maid;
Her chariot is an empty hazelnut,
Made by the joiner squirrel or old grub,
Time out o’ mind the fairies’ coachmakers.
And in this state she gallops night by night
Through lovers’ brains, and then they dream of love;
O’er courtiers’ knees, that dream on curtsies straight;
O’er lawyers’ fingers, who straight dream on fees;
O’er ladies’ lips, who straight on kisses dream,
Which oft the angry Mab with blisters plagues,
Because their breaths with sweetmeats tainted are.
Sometime she gallops o’er a courtier’s nose,
And then dreams he of smelling out a suit,
And sometime comes she with a tithe-pig’s tail
Tickling a parson’s nose as ’a lies asleep,
Then dreams he of another benefice.
Sometime she driveth o’er a soldier’s neck,
And then dreams he of cutting foreign throats,
Of breaches, ambuscadoes, Spanish blades,
Of healths five fathom deep; and then anon
Drums in his ear, at which he starts and wakes,
And being thus frightened, swears a prayer or two
And sleeps again. This is that very Mab
That plaits the manes of horses in the night
And bakes the elflocks in foul sluttish hairs,
Which once untangled much misfortune bodes.
This is the hag, when maids lie on their backs,
That presses them and learns them first to bear,
Making them women of good carriage.
This is she—
Romeo. Peace, peace, Mercutio, peace!
Thou talkst of nothing.
Mercutio. True, I talk of dreams;
Which are the children of an idle brain,
Begot of nothing but vain fantasy;
Which is as thin of substance as the air,
And more inconstant than the wind, who woos

59 spinners’ legs: spiders’ legs.
61 traces: harness.
68 joiner: carpenter.
77–78 Sometimes she . . . suit: Sometimes Mab makes a member of the king’s court dream of receiving special favors.
81 benefice: a well-paying position for a clergyman.
84 ambuscadoes: ambushes; Spanish blades: high-quality Spanish swords.
89 plaits: braids.
96–103 True . . . South: Mercutio is trying to keep Romeo from taking his dreams too seriously.
Even now the frozen bosom of the North
And, being angered, puffs away from thence,
Turning his face to the dew-dropping South.

Benvolio. This wind you talk of blows us from ourselves.

Romeo. I fear, too early; for my mind misgives
Some consequence, yet hanging in the stars,
Shall bitterly begin his fearful date
With this night’s revels and expire the term
Of a despised life, closed in my breast,
By some vile forfeit of untimely death.

But he that hath the steerage of my course
Direct my sail! On, lusty gentlemen!

Benvolio. Strike, drum.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE 5  A hall in Capulet’s house; the scene of the party.

This is the scene of the party at which Romeo and Juliet finally meet.
Romeo and his friends, disguised in their masks, arrive as uninvited guests.
As he watches the dancers, Romeo suddenly sees Juliet and falls in love at first sight. At the same time, Tybalt recognizes Romeo’s voice and knows he is a Montague. Tybalt alerts Capulet and threatens to kill Romeo. Capulet, however, insists that Tybalt behave himself and act like a gentleman. Promising revenge, Tybalt leaves. Romeo and Juliet meet and kiss in the middle of the dance floor. Only after they part do they learn each other’s identity.

[Servingmen come forth with napkins.]

First Servingman. Where’s Potpan, that he helps not to take away? He shift a trencher! he scrape a trencher!

Second Servingman. When good manners shall lie all in one or two men’s hands, and they unwashed too, ’tis a foul thing.

First Servingman. Away with the joint-stools, remove the court-cupboard, look to the plate. Good thou, save me a piece of marchpane and, as thou lovest me, let the porter let in Susan Grindstone and Nell. Anthony, and Potpan!

Second Servingman. Ay, boy, ready.

First Servingman. You are looked for and called for, asked for and sought for, in the great chamber.

Third Servingman. We cannot be here and there too. Cheerly, boys! Be brisk awhile, and the longer liver take all.

[Exeunt.]
[Maskers appear with Capulet, Lady Capulet, Juliet, all the Guests, and Servants.]

Capulet. Welcome, gentlemen! Ladies that have their toes Unplagued with corns will have a bout with you.
Ah ha, my mistresses! which of you all Will now deny to dance? She that makes dainty, She I’ll swear hath corns. Am I come near ye now? Welcome, gentlemen! I have seen the day That I have worn a visor and could tell A whispering tale in a fair lady’s ear, Such as would please. ’Tis gone, ’tis gone, ’tis gone! You are welcome, gentlemen! Come, musicians, play.
A hall, a hall! give room! and foot it, girls.

[Music plays and they dance.]

More light, you knaves! and turn the tables up, And quench the fire, the room is grown too hot. Ah, sirrah, this unlooked-for sport comes well. Nay, sit, nay, sit, good cousin Capulet, For you and I are past our dancing days.

How long is’t now since last yourself and I Were in a mask?

Second Capulet. By’r Lady, thirty years.

Capulet. What, man? ’Tis not so much, ’tis not so much!

14–27 Capulet welcomes his guests and invites them all to dance. At the same time, like a good host, he is trying to get the party going. He alternates talking with his guests and telling the servants what to do.

17–18 She that...corns: Any woman too shy to dance will be assumed to have corns, ugly and painful growths on the toes.

20 visor: mask.

28–38 Capulet and his relative watch the dancing as they talk of days gone by.

---

Guests dance at the Capulets’ ball in the Royal Ballet’s 1996 production.
'Tis since the nuptial of Lucentio,
Come Pentecost as quickly as it will,
Some five-and-twenty years, and then we masked.

Second Capulet. 'Tis more, 'tis more! His son is elder, sir;
His son is thirty.
Capulet. Will you tell me that?
His son was but a ward two years ago.

Romeo [to a Servingman]. What lady’s that, which doth enrich the hand
Of yonder knight?
Servant. I know not, sir.
Romeo. O, she doth teach the torches to burn bright!
It seems she hangs upon the cheek of night
Like a rich jewel in an Ethiop’s ear—
Beauty too rich for use, for earth too dear!
So shows a snowy dove trooping with crows
As yonder lady o’er her fellows shows.
The measure done, I’ll watch her place of stand
And, touching hers, make blessed my rude hand.
Did my heart love till now? Forswear it, sight!
For I ne’er saw true beauty till this night.

Tybalt. This, by his voice, should be a Montague.
Fetch me my rapier, boy. What, dares the slave
Come hither, covered with an antic face,
To fleer and scorn at our solemnity?
Now, by the stock and honor of my kin,
To strike him dead I hold it not a sin.

Capulet. Why, how now, kinsman? Wherefore storm you so?
Tybalt. Uncle, this is a Montague, our foe;
A villain, that is hither come in spite
To scorn at our solemnity this night.

Capulet. Young Romeo is it?
Tybalt. 'Tis he, that villain Romeo.

Capulet. Content thee, gentle coz, let him alone.
'A bears him like a portly gentleman,

And, to say truth, Verona brags of him
To be a virtuous and well-governed youth.
I would not for the wealth of all this town
Here in my house do him disparagement.
Therefore be patient, take no note of him.
It is my will; the which if thou respect,
Show a fair presence and put off these frowns,
An ill-beseeming semblance for a feast.

Tybalt. It fits when such a villain is a guest.
I'll not endure him.

Capulet. He shall be endured.

What, goodman boy? I say he shall. Go to!
Am I the master here, or you? Go to!
You'll not endure him? God shall mend my soul!
You'll make a mutiny among my guests!
You will set cock-a-hoop! You'll be the man.

Tybalt. Why, uncle, ’tis a shame.

Capulet. Go to, go to!
You are a saucy boy. Is’t so, indeed?
This trick may chance to scathe you. I know what.
You must contrary me! Marry, ’tis time.—
Well said, my hearts!—You are a princox—go!
Be quiet, or—More light, more light!—For shame!
I’ll make you quiet; what!—Cheerly, my hearts!

Tybalt. Patience perforce with willful choler meeting
Makes my flesh tremble in their different greeting.
I will withdraw; but this intrusion shall,
Now seeming sweet, convert to bitter gall.

[Exit.]

Romeo. If I profane with my unworthiest hand
This holy shrine, the gentle fine is this:
My lips, two blushing pilgrims, ready stand
To smooth that rough touch with a tender kiss.

Juliet. Good pilgrim, you do wrong your hand too much,
Which mannerly devotion shows in this;
For saints have hands that pilgrims’ hands do touch,
And palm to palm is holy palmers’ kiss.

Romeo. Have not saints lips, and holy palmers too?

Juliet. Ay, pilgrim, lips that they must use in prayer.

Romeo. O, then, dear saint, let lips do what hands do!
They pray; grant thou, lest faith turn to despair.

Juliet. Saints do not move, though grant for prayers’ sake.

Romeo. Then move not while my prayer’s effect I take.

Thus from my lips, by thine my sin is purged.
[kisses her]

Juliet. Then have my lips the sin that they have took.
Romeo. Sin from my lips? O trespass sweetly urged! Give me my sin again.
[kisses her]

Juliet. You kiss by the book.

Nurse. Madam, your mother craves a word with you.

Romeo. What is her mother?

Nurse. Marry, bachelor, Her mother is the lady of the house. And a good lady, and a wise and virtuous. I nursed her daughter that you talked withal. I tell you, he that can lay hold of her Shall have the chinks.

Romeo. Is she a Capulet? O dear account! my life is my foe’s debt.
Benvolio. Away, be gone, the sport is at the best.

Romeo. Ay, so I fear; the more is my unrest.

Capulet. Nay, gentlemen, prepare not to be gone;
We have a trifling foolish banquet towards.

[They whisper in his ear.]
Is it e’en so? Why then, I thank you all.
I thank you, honest gentlemen. Good night.
More torches here! [Exeunt Maskers.] Come on then, let’s to bed.
Ah, sirrah, by my fay, it waxes late;
I’ll to my rest.

[Exeunt all but Juliet and Nurse.]

Juliet. Come hither, nurse. What is yond gentleman?

Nurse. The son and heir of old Tiberio.

Juliet. What’s he that now is going out of door?

Nurse. Marry, that, I think, be young Petruchio.

Juliet. What’s he that follows there, that would not dance?

Nurse. I know not.

Juliet. Go ask his name.—If he be married,
My grave is like to be my wedding bed.

Nurse. His name is Romeo, and a Montague,
The only son of your great enemy.

Juliet. My only love, sprung from my only hate!
Too early seen unknown, and known too late!
Prodigious birth of love it is to me
That I must love a loathed enemy.

Nurse. What’s this? what’s this?

Juliet. A rhyme I learnt even now
Of one I danced withal.

[One calls within, “Juliet.”]

Nurse. Anon, anon!
Come, let’s away; the strangers all are gone.
[Exeunt.]
Comprehension

1. Recall What warning does Prince Escalus give the Capulets and the Montagues?
2. Recall What agreement do Paris and Lord Capulet reach?
3. Recall Why does Romeo go to the Capulets’ party?
4. Clarify What is the chief obstacle to Romeo and Juliet’s love?

Text Analysis

5. Reading Shakespearean Drama  Review the chart you created. Which events in Act One seem most important in setting up conflicts in the plot? Which events seem to suggest a possible theme?

6. Identify Character Foils A foil is a character who highlights, through sharp contrast, the qualities of another character. As mentioned on page 1057, Mercutio is a comic foil to Romeo. Identify two other characters in Act One who are foils for each other. What do you learn about the characters by seeing them in contrast to one another?

7. Analyze Foreshadowing Examine the examples of foreshadowing listed in the chart. To clarify your understanding of the examples, try paraphrasing them. Then explain what event each ominous passage foreshadows.

8. Evaluate Blank Verse Find and copy a group of four lines of blank verse in Act One, marking the unstressed (−) and the stressed (∗) syllables in each line. Then explain whether the lines show the typical iambic pentameter pattern or contain rhythmic variations. In your opinion, does the passage accurately capture the sound of spoken English? Explain.

Text Criticism

9. Critical Interpretations Works of great acclaim sometimes fail to live up to expectations. According to critic Robert Graves, the “remarkable thing about Shakespeare is that he is really very good—in spite of all the people who say he is very good.” Is Romeo and Juliet living up to your expectations? Explain.
Prologue

In a sonnet the Chorus summarizes what has happened so far in the play. He reviews how Romeo and Juliet have fallen in love and suggests both the problems and the delights they now face. He also includes hints about what will result from the events of Act One.

[Enter Chorus.]

Chorus. Now old desire doth in his deathbed lie, And young affection gapes to be his heir. That fair for which love groaned for and would die, With tender Juliet matched, is now not fair.

Now Romeo is beloved, and loves again, Alike bewitched by the charm of looks; But to his foe supposed he must complain, And she steal love’s sweet bait from fearful hooks. Being held a foe, he may not have access To breathe such vows as lovers use to swear, And she as much in love, her means much less To meet her new beloved anywhere; But passion lends them power, time means, to meet, Temp’ring extremities with extreme sweet.

[Exit.]

1–4 Now . . . fair: Romeo’s love for Rosaline (old desire) is now dead. His new love (young affection) replaces the old. Compared to Juliet, Rosaline no longer seems so beautiful.

6 What attracted Romeo and Juliet to each other?

7 but . . . complain: Juliet, a Capulet, is Romeo’s supposed enemy, yet she is the one to whom he must plead (complain) his love.

14 temp’ring . . . sweet: moderating great difficulties with extreme delights.

Act Two

SCENE 1  A lane by the wall of Capulet’s orchard.

Later in the evening of the party, Romeo returns alone to the Capulet home, hoping for another glimpse of Juliet. He climbs the wall and hides outside, in the orchard. Meanwhile, Benvolio and Mercutio come looking for him, but he remains hidden behind the wall. Mercutio makes fun of Romeo and his lovesick condition. Keep in mind that Mercutio and Benvolio think Romeo is still in love with Rosaline, since they know nothing about his meeting with Juliet.

[Enter Romeo alone.]

Romeo. Can I go forward when my heart is here? Turn back, dull earth, and find thy center out. [climbs the wall and leaps down within it]

[Enter Benvolio with Mercutio.]

Benvolio. Romeo! my cousin Romeo! Romeo!
Mercutio. He is wise, And, on my life, hath stol’n him home to bed.

5 Benvolio. He ran this way, and leapt this orchard wall. Call, good Mercutio.

Mercutio. Nay, I’ll conjure too. Romeo! humors! madman! passion! lover! Appear thou in the likeness of a sigh; Speak but one rhyme, and I am satisfied! Cry but “Ay me!” pronounce but “love” and “dove”; Speak to my gossip Venus one fair word, a One nickname for her purblind son and heir, Young Adam Cupid, he that shot so trim When King Cophetua loved the beggar maid!

10 He heareth not, he stirreth not, he moveth not; The ape is dead, and I must conjure him. I conjure thee by Rosaline’s bright eyes, By her high forehead and her scarlet lip, By her fine foot, straight leg, and quivering thigh, And the demesnes that there adjacent lie, That in thy likeness thou appear to us!

Benvolio. An if he hear thee, thou wilt anger him.

Mercutio. This cannot anger him. ’Twould anger him To raise a spirit in his mistress’ circle Of some strange nature, letting it there stand Till she had laid it and conjured it down. That were some spite; my invocation Is fair and honest and in his mistress’ name I conjure only but to raise up him.

20 Benvolio. Come, he hath hid himself among these trees To be consorted with the humorous night. Blind is his love, and best befits the dark.

Mercutio. If love be blind, love cannot hit the mark. Now will he sit under a medlar tree And wish his mistress were that kind of fruit As maids call medlars when they laugh alone. Oh, Romeo, that she were, O, that she were An open et cetera, thou a pop’rin pear! Romeo, good night. I’ll to my truckle bed; This field-bed is too cold for me to sleep. Come, shall we go?

Benvolio. Go then, for ’tis in vain To seek him here that means not to be found.

[Exeunt.]
SCENE 2  Capulet’s orchard.
The following is one of the most famous scenes in all literature. The speeches contain some of the most beautiful poetry Shakespeare ever wrote.

Juliet appears on the balcony outside her room. She cannot see Romeo, who stands in the garden just below. At the beginning of the scene, both characters are speaking private thoughts to themselves. Romeo, however, can hear Juliet as she expresses her love for him despite his family name. Eventually, he speaks directly to her, and they declare their love for each other. Just before dawn Romeo leaves to make plans for their wedding.

[Enter Romeo.]

Romeo. He jests at scars that never felt a wound.

[Enter Juliet above at a window.]

But soft! What light through yonder window breaks? It is the East, and Juliet is the sun! Arise, fair sun, and kill the envious moon, Who is already sick and pale with grief That thou her maid art far more fair than she. Be not her maid, since she is envious; Her vestal livery is but sick and green, And none but fools do wear it; cast it off.

It is my lady; O, it is my love! O that she knew she were!

She speaks, yet she says nothing. What of that? Her eye discourses; I will answer it. I am too bold; ’tis not to me she speaks.

Two of the fairest stars in all the heaven, Having some business, do entreat her eyes To twinkle in their spheres till they return. What if her eyes were there, they in her head? The brightness of her cheek would shame those stars As daylight doth a lamp; her eyes in heaven Would through the airy region stream so bright That birds would sing and think it were not night. See how she leans her cheek upon her hand! O that I were a glove upon that hand, That I might touch that cheek!

Juliet. Ay me!

Romeo. She speaks.

O, speak again, bright angel! for thou art As glorious to this night, being o’er my head, As is a winged messenger of heaven

1  He jests ... wound: Romeo has overheard Mercutio and comments that Mercutio makes fun of love because he has never been wounded by it.

2–9  But soft ... cast it off: Romeo sees Juliet at the window. For a moment he is speechless (soft: be still), but then he describes her beauty in glowing images.

13–14  Her eye ... speaks: Romeo shifts back and forth between wanting to speak to Juliet and being afraid.

15–22  Two of ... not night: Romeo compares Juliet’s eyes to stars in the sky.

SOLILOQUY
To whom is Romeo speaking in lines 2–25? Explain what this soliloquy tells you about Romeo’s thoughts.

25  Juliet begins to speak, not knowing that Romeo is nearby.

26–32  thou art ... of the air: He compares Juliet to an angel (winged messenger of heaven) who stands on (bestrides) the clouds.
Unto the white-upturned wond’ring eyes
Of mortals that fall back to gaze on him
When he bestrides the lazy-pacing clouds
And sails upon the bosom of the air.

_Juliet._ O Romeo, Romeo! wherefore art thou Romeo?
Deny thy father and refuse thy name!
Or, if thou wilt not, be but sworn my love,
And I’ll no longer be a Capulet.

_Romeo_ [aside]. Shall I hear more, or shall I speak at this?

_Juliet._ ’Tis but thy name that is my enemy.
Thou art thyself, though not a Montague.
What’s Montague? It is nor hand, nor foot,
Nor arm, nor face, nor any other part
Belonging to a man. O, be some other name!
What’s in a name? That which we call a rose
By any other name would smell as sweet.

So Romeo would, were he not Romeo called,
Retain that dear perfection which he owes
Without that title. Romeo, doff thy name;
And for that name, which is no part of thee,
Take all myself.

_Romeo._ I take thee at thy word.

Call me but love, and I’ll be new baptized;
Henceforth I never will be Romeo.

_Juliet._ What man art thou that, thus bescreened in night,
So stumblest on my counsel?

_Romeo._ By a name
I know not how to tell thee who I am.

My name, dear saint, is hateful to myself,
Because it is an enemy to thee.
Had I it written, I would tear the word.

_Juliet._ My ears have yet not drunk a hundred words
Of that tongue’s utterance, yet I know the sound.

Art thou not Romeo, and a Montague?

_Romeo._ Neither, fair saint, if either thee dislike.

_Juliet._ How camest thou hither, tell me, and wherefore?
The orchard walls are high and hard to climb,
And the place death, considering who thou art,

If any of my kinsmen find thee here.
Romeo. With love's light wings did I o'erperch these walls;
For stony limits cannot hold love out,
And what love can do, that dares love attempt.
Therefore thy kinsmen are no let to me.

Juliet. If they do see thee, they will murder thee.

Romeo. Alack, there lies more peril in thine eye
Than twenty of their swords! Look thou but sweet,
And I am proof against their enmity.

Juliet. I would not for the world they saw thee here.

Romeo. I have night's cloak to hide me from their sight;
And but thou love me, let them find me here.
My life were better ended by their hate
Than death prorogued, wanting of thy love.

Juliet. By whose direction foundst thou out this place?

Romeo. By love, that first did prompt me to enquire.
He lent me counsel, and I lent him eyes.
I am no pilot, yet, wert thou as far
As that vast shore washed with the farthest sea,
I would adventure for such merchandise.

Juliet. Thou knowest the mask of night is on my face;
Else would a maiden blush bepaint my cheek
For that which thou hast heard me speak tonight.
Fain would I dwell on form—fain, fain deny
What I have spoke; but farewell compliment!

Dost thou love me? I know thou wilt say "Ay";
And I will take thy word. Yet, if thou swearst,
Thou mayst prove false. At lovers' perjuries,
They say Jove laughs. O gentle Romeo,
If thou dost love, pronounce it faithfully.
Or if thou thinkst I am too quickly won,
I'll frown, and be perverse, and say thee nay,
So thou wilt woo; but else, not for the world.
In truth, fair Montague, I am too fond,
And therefore thou mayst think my 'havior light;
But trust me, gentleman, I'll prove more true
Than those that have more cunning to be strange.
I should have been more strange, I must confess,
But that thou overheardst, ere I was ware,
My true love's passion. Therefore pardon me,
And not impute this yielding to light love,
Which the dark night hath so discovered.
Romeo. Lady, by yonder blessed moon I swear,
That tips with silver all these fruit-tree tops—

Juliet. O, swear not by the moon, the inconstant moon,
That monthly changes in her circled orb,
Lest that thy love prove likewise variable.

Romeo. What shall I swear by?

Juliet. Do not swear at all;
Or if thou wilt, swear by thy gracious self,
Which is the god of my idolatry,
And I'll believe thee.

110–111 Why doesn’t Juliet want Romeo to swear by the moon?
Romeo. If my heart’s dear love—

Juliet. Well, do not swear. Although I joy in thee, I have no joy of this contract tonight. It is too rash, too unadvised, too sudden; Too like the lightning, which doth cease to be Ere one can say “It lightens.” Sweet, good night! This bud of love, by summer’s ripening breath, May prove a beauteous flow’r when next we meet. Good night, good night! As sweet repose and rest Come to thy heart as that within my breast!

Romeo. O, wilt thou leave me so unsatisfied?

Juliet. What satisfaction canst thou have tonight?

Romeo. The exchange of thy love’s faithful vow for mine.

Juliet. I gave thee mine before thou didst request it; And yet I would it were to give again.

Romeo. Wouldst thou withdraw it? For what purpose, love?

Juliet. But to be frank and give it thee again. And yet I wish but for the thing I have. My bounty is as boundless as the sea, My love as deep; the more I give to thee, The more I have, for both are infinite.

I hear some noise within. Dear love, adieu!

[Nurse calls within.]

Anon, good nurse! Sweet Montague, be true. Stay but a little, I will come again. [Exit.]

Romeo. O blessed, blessed night! I am afeard, Being in night, all this is but a dream, Too flattering-sweet to be substantial.

[Re-enter Juliet, above.]

Juliet. Three words, dear Romeo, and good night indeed. If that thy bent of love be honorable, Thy purpose marriage, send me word tomorrow,

Romeo. By one that I’ll procure to come to thee, Where and what time thou wilt perform the rite; And all my fortunes at thy foot I’ll lay And follow thee my lord throughout the world.

Nurse [within]. Madam!

Juliet. I come, anon.—But if thou meanst not well, I do beseech thee—

117 I have...contract: I am concerned about this declaration of love (contract).

137–138 anon: right away. Juliet calls to her nurse but asks Romeo to wait, as she will come back soon.

143–146 If that...rite: I’ll send a messenger to you tomorrow. If your intention is to marry me, tell the messenger where and when the ceremony will be.

150–151 But if...thee: Juliet is still worried that Romeo is not serious.
Nurse [within]. Madam!

Juliet. By-and-by I come.—To cease thy suit and leave me to my grief.

Romeo. So thrive my soul—

Juliet. A thousand times good night! [Exit.]

Romeo. A thousand times the worse, to want thy light!

Love goes toward love as schoolboys from their books;
But love from love, towards school with heavy looks.

[Enter Juliet again, above.]

Juliet. Hist! Romeo, hist! O for a falc’ner’s voice
To lure this tassel-gentle back again!

Bondage is hoarse and may not speak aloud;
Else would I tear the cave where Echo lies,
And make her airy tongue more hoarse than mine
With repetition of my Romeo’s name.

Romeo! Romeo!

Juliet. Romeo! Romeo!

Romeo. It is my soul that calls upon my name.

How silver-sweet sound lovers’ tongues by night,
Like softest music to attending ears!

Juliet. Romeo! Romeo!

Romeo. My sweet?

Juliet. What o’clock tomorrow
Shall I send to thee?

Romeo. By the hour of nine.

Juliet. I will not fail. ’Tis twenty years till then.

I have forgot why I did call thee back.

Romeo. Let me stand here till thou remember it.

Juliet. I shall forget, to have thee still stand there,
Rememb’ring how I love thy company.

Romeo. And I’ll still stay, to have thee still forget,
Forgetting any other home but this.

Juliet. ’Tis almost morning, I would have thee gone—

And yet no farther than a wanton’s bird,
That lets it hop a little from her hand,

Like a poor prisoner in his twisted gyves,
And with a silk thread plucks it back again,
So loving-jealous of his liberty.

Romeo. I would I were thy bird.
Juliet. Sweet, so would I.
Yet I should kill thee with much cherishing.
Good night, good night! Parting is such sweet sorrow,
That I shall say good night till it be morrow.

[Exit.]

Romeo. Sleep dwell upon thine eyes, peace in thy breast!
Would I were sleep and peace, so sweet to rest!
Hence will I to my ghostly father’s cell,
His help to crave and my dear hap to tell.

[Exit.]

SCENE 3 Friar Laurence’s cell in the monastery.
Romeo goes from Capulet’s garden to the monastery where Friar Laurence lives.
The friar knows Romeo well and often gives him advice. As the scene begins, Friar Laurence is gathering herbs in the early morning. He talks of good and bad uses for herbs. Keep this in mind, since Friar Laurence’s skill at mixing herbs becomes important later in the play. Romeo tells the friar that he loves Juliet and wants to marry her. The friar is amazed that Romeo has forgotten about Rosaline so easily and suggests that Romeo might be acting in haste. Eventually, however, he agrees to marry Romeo and Juliet, hoping that the marriage will end the feud between their families.

[Enter Friar Laurence alone, with a basket.]

Friar Laurence. The grey-eyed morn smiles on the frowning night,
Chequ’ring the Eastern clouds with streaks of light;
And flecked darkness like a drunkard reels
From forth day’s path and Titan’s fiery wheels.
Now, ere the sun advance his burning eye
The day to cheer and night’s dank dew to dry,
I must upfill this osier cage of ours
With baleful weeds and precious-juiced flowers.
The earth that’s nature’s mother is her tomb,
What is her burying grave, that is her womb;
And from her womb children of divers kind
We sucking on her natural bosom find;
Many for many virtues excellent,
None but for some, and yet all different.
O, mickle is the powerful grace that lies
In plants, herbs, stones, and their true qualities;
For naught so vile that on the earth doth live
But to the earth some special good doth give;
Nor aught so good but, strained from that fair use,
Revols from true birth, stumbling on abuse.
Virtue itself turns vice, being misapplied,
And vice sometime’s by action dignified.
Within the infant rind of this small flower
Poison hath residence, and medicine power;
For this, being smelt, with that part cheers each part;
Being tasted, slays all senses with the heart.
Two such opposed kings encamp them still
In man as well as herbs—grace and rude will;
And where the worser is predominant,
Full soon the canker death eats up that plant.

[Enter Romeo.]

Romeo. Good morrow, father.

Friar Laurence. Benedicite!

What early tongue so sweet saluteth me?
Young son, it argues a distempered head
So soon to bid good morrow to thy bed.

Care keeps his watch in every old man’s eye,
And where care lodges sleep will never lie;
But where unbruised youth with unstuffed brain
Doth couch his limbs, there golden sleep doth reign.
Therefore thy earliness doth me assure
Thou art uproused with some distemp’rature;
Or if not so, then here I hit it right—
Our Romeo hath not been in bed tonight.

Romeo. That last is true, the sweeter rest was mine.

Friar Laurence. God pardon sin! Wast thou with Rosaline?

Romeo. With Rosaline, my ghostly father? No.
I have forgot that name, and that name’s woe.

Friar Laurence. That’s my good son! But where hast thou been then?

Romeo. I’ll tell thee ere thou ask it me again.
I have been feasting with mine enemy,
Where on a sudden one hath wounded me
That’s by me wounded. Both our remedies
Within thy help and holy physic lies.
I bear no hatred, blessed man, for, lo,
My intercession likewise steads my foe.

Friar Laurence. Be plain, good son, and homely in thy drift.
Riddling confession finds but riddling shrift.
Romeo. Then plainly know my heart’s dear love is set
On the fair daughter of rich Capulet;
As mine on hers, so hers is set on mine,
And all combined, save what thou must combine
By holy marriage. When, and where, and how
We met, we wooed, and made exchange of vow,
I’ll tell thee as we pass; but this I pray,
That thou consent to marry us today.

Friar Laurence. Holy Saint Francis! What a change is here!
Is Rosaline, that thou didst love so dear,
So soon forsaken? Young men’s love then lies
Not truly in their hearts, but in their eyes.
Jesu Maria! What a deal of brine
Hath washed thy sallow cheeks for Rosaline!
How much salt water thrown away in waste,
To season love, that of it doth not taste!
The sun not yet thy sighs from heaven clears,
Thy old groans ring yet in mine ancient ears.
Lo, here upon thy cheek the stain doth sit
Of an old tear that is not washed off yet.
If e’er thou wast thyself, and these woes thine,
Thou and these woes were all for Rosaline.
And art thou changed? Pronounce this sentence then:
Women may fall when there’s no strength in men.
Romeo. Thou chidst me oft for loving Rosaline.
Friar Laurence. For doting, not for loving, pupil mine.
Romeo. And badest me bury love.
Friar Laurence. Not in a grave
To lay one in, another ought to have.
Romeo. I pray thee chide not. She whom I love now
Doth grace for grace and love for love allow.
The other did not so.
Friar Laurence. O, she knew well
Thy love did read by rote, that could not spell.
But come, young waverer, come go with me.
In one respect I’ll thy assistant be;
For this alliance may so happy prove
To turn your households’ rancor to pure love.
Romeo. O, let us hence! I stand on sudden haste.
Friar Laurence. Wisely, and slow. They stumble that run fast.
[Exeunt.]

Scene 4  A street.
Several hours after his meeting with Friar Laurence, Romeo meets Benvolio and Mercutio in the street. He is excited and happy; his mood is key to the comic nature of this scene, which includes much talk of swordplay and many suggestive jokes. Mercutio makes fun of Tybalt and teases Romeo. The nurse comes to carry a message from Romeo to Juliet. Romeo tells her that Juliet should meet him at Friar Laurence’s cell for their secret marriage ceremony.

[Enter Benvolio and Mercutio.]
Mercutio. Where the devil should this Romeo be?
Came he not home tonight?
Benvolio. Not to his father’s. I spoke with his man.

Mercutio. Why, that same pale hard-hearted wench, that Rosaline, torments him so that he will sure run mad.

Benvolio. Tybalt, the kinsman to old Capulet, Hath sent a letter to his father’s house.

Mercutio. A challenge, on my life.

Benvolio. Romeo will answer it.

Mercutio. Any man that can write may answer a letter.

Benvolio. Nay, he will answer the letter’s master, how he dares, being dared.

Mercutio. Alas, poor Romeo, he is already dead! stabbed with a white wench’s black eye; shot through the ear with a love song; the very pin of his heart cleft with the blind bow-boy’s butt-shaft; and is he a man to encounter Tybalt?

Benvolio. Why, what is Tybalt?

Mercutio. More than Prince of Cats, I can tell you. O, he’s the courageous captain of compliments. He fights as you sing pricksong—keeps time, distance, and proportion; rests me his minim rest, one, two, and the third in your bosom! the very butcher of a silk button, a duelist, a duelist! a gentleman of the very first house, of the first and second cause. Ah, the immortal passado! the punto reverso! the hay!

Benvolio. The what?

Mercutio. The pox of such antic, lisping, affecting fantasticoes—these new tuners of accent! “By Jesu, a very good blade! a very tall man! a very good whore!” Why, is not this a lamentable thing, grandsire, that we should be thus afflicted with these strange flies, these fashion-mongers, these perdona-mi’s, who stand so much on the new form that they cannot sit at ease on the old bench? O, their bones, their bones!

[Enter Romeo, no longer moody.]

Benvolio. Here comes Romeo! Here comes Romeo!

Mercutio. Without his roe, like a dried herring. O, flesh, flesh, how art thou fishified! Now is he for the numbers that Petrarch flowed in. Laura, to his lady, was but a kitchen wench (marry, she had a better love to berhyme her), Dido a dowdy, Cleopatra a gypsy, Helen and Hero hildings and harlots, Thisbe a grey eye

3 man: servant.

6–12 Tybalt . . . dared: Tybalt, still angry about Romeo’s crashing the Capulet party, has sent a letter challenging Romeo to a duel. Benvolio says that Romeo will do more than answer the letter; he will accept Tybalt’s challenge and fight him.

15 blind bow-boy’s butt-shaft: Cupid’s dull practice arrow. Mercutio suggests that Romeo fell in love with very little work on Cupid’s part.

18–24 More than . . . hay: Mercutio mocks Tybalt’s name. Prince of Cats refers to a cat in a fable, named Tybalt, who was known for his slyness. Then Mercutio makes fun of Tybalt’s fancy new style of dueling, comparing it to precision singing (pricksong). Passado, punto reverso, and hay were terms used in the new dueling style.

26–32 The pox . . . their bones: Mercutio continues to make fun of people who embrace new styles and new manners of speaking.

34–39 without his roe: only part of himself (Mercutio makes fun of Romeo’s name and his lovesickness); numbers: verses. Mercutio mentions Petrarch, who wrote sonnets to his love, Laura. According to Mercutio, Romeo’s feelings for Rosaline are so intense that great loves in literature—Laura, Dido, and others—could never measure up. or so, but not to the purpose. Signior Romeo, bon jour! There’s a French salutation to your French slop. You gave us the counterfeit fairly last night.

Romeo. Good morrow to you both. What counterfeit did I give you?

Mercutio. The slip, sir, the slip. Can you not conceive?

Romeo. Pardon, good Mercutio. My business was great, and in such a case as mine a man may strain courtesy.

Mercutio. That’s as much as to say, such a case as yours constrains a man to bow in the hams.

Romeo. Meaning, to curtsy.

Mercutio. Thou hast most kindly hit it.

Romeo. A most courteous exposition.

Mercutio. Nay, I am the very pink of courtesy.

Romeo. Pink for flower.

Mercutio. Right.

Romeo. Why, then is my pump well-flowered.

Mercutio. Well said! Follow me this jest now till thou hast worn out thy pump, that, when the single sole of it is worn, the jest may remain, after the wearing, solely singular.

Romeo. Oh, single-soled jest, solely singular for the singleness!

Mercutio. Come between us, good Benvolio! My wits faint.

Romeo. Switch and spurs, switch and spurs! or I’ll cry a match.

Mercutio. Nay, if our wits run the wild-goose chase, I am done; for thou hast more of the wild goose in one of thy wits than, I am sure, I have in my whole five. Was I with you there for the Mercutio. Thy wit is a very bitter sweeting; it is a most sharp sauce.

Romeo. And is it not, then, well served in to a sweet goose?

Mercutio. O, here’s a wit of cheveril, that stretches from an inch narrow to an ell broad!

39–44 bon jour: “Good day” in French;
There’s ... last night: Here’s a greeting to match your fancy French trousers (slop).
You did a good job of getting away from us last night. (A piece of counterfeit money was called a slip.)

44–81 In these lines, Romeo and Mercutio have a battle of wits. They keep trying to top each other with funnier comments and cleverer puns.

55 pump: shoe; well-flowered: Shoes were “pinked,” or punched out in flowerlike designs.

61 Switch ... match: Keep going, or I’ll claim victory.

64–65 Was ... goose: Have I proved that you are a foolish person?

73 cheveril: kidskin, which is flexible.
Mercutio means that a little wit stretches
a long way.
Romeo. I stretch it out for that word “broad,” which, added to the goose, proves thee far and wide a broad goose.

Mercutio. Why, is not this better now than groaning for love? Now art thou sociable, now art thou Romeo; now art thou what thou art, by art as well as by nature. For this drivelong love is like a great natural that runs lolling up and down to hide his bauble in a hole.

Benvolio. Stop there, stop there!

Mercutio. Thou desirest me to stop in my tale against the hair.

Benvolio. Thou wouldst else have made thy tale large.

Mercutio. O, thou art deceived! I would have made it short; for I was come to the whole depth of my tale, and meant indeed to occupy the argument no longer.

[Enter Nurse and Peter, her servant. He is carrying a large fan.]

Romeo. Here’s goodly gear!

Mercutio. A sail, a sail!

Benvolio. Two, two! a shirt and a smock.

Nurse. Peter!

Peter. Anon.

Nurse. My fan, Peter.

Mercutio. Good Peter, to hide her face; for her fan’s the fairer of the two.

Nurse. God ye good morrow, gentlemen.

Mercutio. God ye good-den, fair gentlewoman.

Nurse. Is it good-den?

Mercutio. ’Tis no less, I tell ye, for the bawdy hand of the dial is now upon the prick of noon.

Nurse. Out upon you! What a man are you!

Romeo. One, gentlewoman, that God hath made himself to mar.

Nurse. By my troth, it is well said. “For himself to mar,” quoth’ a? Gentlemen, can any of you tell me where I may find the young Romeo?

Romeo. I can tell you; but young Romeo will be older when you have found him than he was when you sought him. I am the youngest of that name, for fault of a worse.

80–81 great natural: an idiot, like a jester or clown who carries a fool’s stick (bauble).

88–89 goodly gear: something fine to joke about; a sail: Mercutio likens the nurse in all her petticoats to a huge ship coming toward them.

93 Fans were usually carried only by fine ladies. The nurse is trying to pretend that she is more than a servant.
Nurse. You say well.

Mercutio. Yea, is the worst well? Very well took, i’ faith! wisely, wisely.

Nurse. If you be he, sir, I desire some confidence with you.

Benvolio. She will endite him to some supper.

Mercutio. A bawd, a bawd, a bawd! So ho!

Romeo. What hast thou found?

Mercutio. No hare, sir; unless a hare, sir, in a lenten pie, that is something stale and hoar ere it be spent.

[sings]

“An old hare hoar,
And an old hare hoar,
Is very good meat in Lent.
But a hare that is hoar,
Is too much for a score
When it hoars ere it be spent.”

Romeo, will you come to your father’s? We’ll to dinner thither.

Romeo. I will follow you.

[Exeunt Mercutio and Benvolio.]

Nurse. Marry, farewell! I pray you, sir, what saucy merchant was this that was so full of his ropery?

Romeo. A gentleman, nurse, that loves to hear himself talk and will speak more in a minute than he will stand to in a month.

Nurse. An ’a speak anything against me, I’ll take him down, an ’a were lustier than he is, and twenty such Jacks; and if I cannot, I’ll find those that shall. Scurvy knave! I am none of his flirt-gills; I am none of his skainsmates. [turning to Peter] And thou must stand by too, and suffer every knave to use me at his pleasure?

Peter. I saw no man use you at his pleasure. If I had, my weapon should quickly have been out, I warrant you. I dare draw as soon as another man, if I see occasion in a good quarrel, and the law on my side.

112–113 confidence: The nurse means conference; she uses big words without understanding their meaning; endite: Benvolio makes fun of the nurse by using this word rather than invite.

114–124 Mercutio calls the nurse a bawd, or woman who runs a house of prostitution. His song uses the insulting puns hare, a rabbit or prostitute, and hoar, old.

128 ropery: roguery, or jokes.

133–134 The nurse is angry that Mercutio treated her like one of his loose women (flirt-gills) or his gangsterlike friends (skainsmates).
Set Design

Often, set designers recreate the world of Romeo and Juliet in strikingly unique ways. Designers of the productions pictured here created radically different sets for the balcony scene. List three adjectives you would use to describe each set. What factors might make a designer choose to create one of these particular set styles?
Nurse. Now, afore God, I am so vexed that every part about me quivers. Scurvy knave! Pray you, sir, a word; and as I told you, my young lady bade me enquire you out. What she bid me say, I will keep to myself; but first let me tell ye, if ye should lead her into a fool’s paradise, as they say, it were a very gross kind of behavior, as they say; for the gentlewoman is young; and therefore, if you should deal double with her, truly it were an ill thing to be offered to any gentlewoman, and very weak dealing.

Romeo. Nurse, commend me to thy lady and mistress. I protest unto thee—

Nurse. Good heart, and i’ faith I will tell her as much. Lord, Lord! she will be a joyful woman.

Romeo. What wilt thou tell her, nurse? Thou dost not mark me.

Nurse. I will tell her, sir, that you do protest, which, as I take it, is a gentlemanlike offer.

Romeo. Bid her devise some means to come to shrift this afternoon; And there she shall at Friar Laurence’s cell Be shrived and married. Here is for thy pains.

Nurse. No, truly, sir; not a penny.

Romeo. Go to! I say you shall.

Nurse. This afternoon, sir? Well, she shall be there.

Romeo. And stay, good nurse, behind the abbey wall. Within this hour my man shall be with thee And bring thee cords made like a tackled stair, Which to the high topgallant of my joy Must be my convoy in the secret night.

Farewell. Be trusty, and I’ll quit thy pains. Farewell. Commend me to thy mistress.

Nurse. Now God in heaven bless thee! Hark you, sir.

Romeo. What sayst thou, my dear nurse?

Nurse. Is your man secret? Did you ne’er hear say, Two may keep counsel, putting one away?

Romeo. I warrant thee my man’s as true as steel.

Nurse. Well, sir, my mistress is the sweetest lady. Lord, Lord! when ’twas a little prating thing—O, there is a nobleman in town, one Paris, that would fain lay knife aboard; but she, good soul, had as lief see a toad, a very toad, as see him. I anger her

140 Nurse. Now, afore God, I am so vexed that every part about me quivers. Scurvy knave! Pray you, sir, a word; and as I told you, my young lady bade me enquire you out. What she bid me say, I will keep to myself; but first let me tell ye, if ye should lead her into a fool’s paradise, as they say, it were a very gross kind of behavior, as they say; for the gentlewoman is young; and therefore, if you should deal double with her, truly it were an ill thing to be offered to any gentlewoman, and very weak dealing.

Romeo. Nurse, commend me to thy lady and mistress. I protest unto thee—

Nurse. Good heart, and i’ faith I will tell her as much. Lord, Lord! she will be a joyful woman.

Romeo. What wilt thou tell her, nurse? Thou dost not mark me.

Nurse. I will tell her, sir, that you do protest, which, as I take it, is a gentlemanlike offer.

Romeo. Bid her devise some means to come to shrift this afternoon; And there she shall at Friar Laurence’s cell Be shrived and married. Here is for thy pains.

Nurse. No, truly, sir; not a penny.

Romeo. Go to! I say you shall.

Nurse. This afternoon, sir? Well, she shall be there.

Romeo. And stay, good nurse, behind the abbey wall. Within this hour my man shall be with thee And bring thee cords made like a tackled stair, Which to the high topgallant of my joy Must be my convoy in the secret night.

Farewell. Be trusty, and I’ll quit thy pains. Farewell. Commend me to thy mistress.

Nurse. Now God in heaven bless thee! Hark you, sir.

Romeo. What sayst thou, my dear nurse?

Nurse. Is your man secret? Did you ne’er hear say, Two may keep counsel, putting one away?

Romeo. I warrant thee my man’s as true as steel.

Nurse. Well, sir, my mistress is the sweetest lady. Lord, Lord! when ’twas a little prating thing—O, there is a nobleman in town, one Paris, that would fain lay knife aboard; but she, good soul, had as lief see a toad, a very toad, as see him. I anger her 142–147 The nurse warns Romeo that he’d better mean what he said about marrying Juliet. She holds back her news while she tries to decide if Romeo’s love is genuine.

148 commend me: give my respectful greetings.

155–159 Romeo tells the nurse to have Juliet come to Friar Laurence’s cell this afternoon, using the excuse that she is going to confess her sins (shrift). There she will receive forgiveness for her sins (be shrived) and be married.

154–155 tackled stair: rope ladder; topgallant: highest point.

167–172 quit thy pains: reward you. The nurse then asks Romeo if his servant can be trusted, then quotes the saying that two can keep a secret but not three.

174–177 The nurse begins to babble about Paris’ proposal but says that Juliet would rather look at a toad than at Paris.
sometimes, and tell her that Paris is the properer man; but I’ll warrant you, when I say so, she looks as pale as any clout in the versal world. Doth not rosemary and Romeo begin both with a letter?

Romeo. Ay, nurse, what of that? Both with an R.

Nurse. Ah, mocker! that’s the dog’s name. R is for the—No; I know it begins with some other letter; and she hath the prettiest sententious of it, of you and rosemary, that it would do you good to hear it.

Romeo. Commend me to thy lady.

Nurse. Ay, a thousand times. [Exit Romeo.] Peter!

Peter. Anon.

Nurse. Peter, take my fan, and go before, and apace.

[Exeunt.]

Scene 5  Capulet’s orchard.

Juliet is a nervous wreck, having waited for more than three hours for the nurse to return. When the nurse does arrive, she simply won’t come to the point. Juliet gets more and more upset, until the nurse finally reveals the wedding arrangements.

[Enter Juliet.]

Juliet. The clock struck nine when I did send the nurse; In half an hour she promised to return. Perchance she cannot meet him. That’s not so. O, she is lame! Love’s heralds should be thoughts, Which ten times faster glide than the sun’s beams Driving back shadows over lowering hills. Therefore do nimble-pinioned doves draw Love, And therefore hath the wind-swift Cupid wings. Now is the sun upon the highmost hill Of this day’s journey, and from nine till twelve Is three long hours; yet she is not come. Had she affections and warm youthful blood, She would be as swift in motion as a ball; My words would bandy her to my sweet love, And his to me. But old folks, many feign as they were dead— Unwieldy, slow, heavy, and pale as lead. [*Enter Nurse and Peter.] O God, she comes! O honey nurse, what news?
Hast thou met with him? Send thy man away.

20 Nurse. Peter, stay at the gate.

[Exit Peter.]

Juliet. Now, good sweet nurse—O Lord, why lookst thou sad?
Though news be sad, yet tell them merrily;
If good, thou shamest the music of sweet news
By playing it to me with so sour a face.

25 Nurse. I am aweary, give me leave awhile.
Fie, how my bones ache! What a jaunce have I had!

Juliet. I would thou hadst my bones, and I thy news.
Nay, come, I pray thee speak. Good, good nurse, speak.

Nurse. Jesu, what haste! Can you not stay awhile?
Do you not see that I am out of breath?

Juliet. How art thou out of breath when thou hast breath
To say to me that thou art out of breath?
The excuse that thou dost make in this delay
Is longer than the tale thou dost excuse.

30 Is thy news good or bad? Answer to that.
Say either, and I'll stay the circumstance.
Let me be satisfied, is't good or bad?

Nurse. Well, you have made a simple choice; you know not how to choose a man. Romeo? No, not he. Though his face be better than any man's, yet his leg excels all men's; and for a hand and a foot, and a body, though they be not to be talked on, yet they are past compare. He is not the flower of courtesy, but, I'll warrant him, as gentle as a lamb. Go thy ways, wench; serve God. What, have you dined at home?

35 Juliet. No, no. But all this did I know before.
What say he of our marriage? What of that?

Nurse. Lord, how my head aches! What a head have I!
It beats as it would fall in twenty pieces.
My back o' t'other side—ah, my back, my back!

40 Beshrew your heart for sending me about
To catch my death with jauncing up and down!

Juliet. I' faith, I am sorry that thou art not well.
Sweet, sweet, sweet nurse, tell me, what says my love?

21–22 The nurse teases Juliet by putting on a sad face as if the news were bad.

25–26 give me . . . I had: Leave me alone for a while. I ache all over because of the running back and forth I've been doing.

Language Coach

Multiple Meanings The word stay has something other than its usual meaning in line 29. What do you think it means? (Hint: The expression “What haste!” means “What a hurry you're in!”) 36 I'll . . . circumstance: I'll wait for the details.

38 simple: foolish.

50–51 Beshrew . . . down: Curse you for making me endanger my health by running around. Considering the nurse’s feelings for Juliet, do you think this is really an angry curse? Explain.
Nurse. Your love says, like an honest gentleman, and a courteous, and a kind, and a handsome, and, I warrant, a virtuous—Where is your mother?

Juliet. Where is my mother? Why, she is within. Where should she be? How oddly thou repliest! "Your love says, like an honest gentleman, ‘Where is your mother?’"

Nurse. O God’s Lady dear!
Are you so hot? Marry come up, I trow.
Is this the poultice for my aching bones?
Hence forward do your messages yourself.

Juliet. Here’s such a coil! Come, what says Romeo?

Nurse. Have you got leave to go to shrift today?

Juliet. I have.

Nurse. Then hie you hence to Friar Laurence’ cell; There stays a husband to make you a wife.
Now comes the wanton blood up in your cheeks:
They’ll be in scarlet straight at any news.
Hie you to church; I must another way,
To fetch a ladder, by the which your love
Must climb a bird’s nest soon when it is dark.
I am the drudge, and toil in your delight;
But you shall bear the burden soon at night.
Go; I’ll to dinner; hie you to the cell.

Juliet. Hie to high fortune! Honest nurse, farewell.

[Exeunt.]

Scene 6
Friar Laurence’s cell.

Friar Laurence cautions Romeo to be more sensible in his love for Juliet. When she arrives, the two confess their love to each other and prepare to be married by Friar Laurence.

[Enter Friar Laurence and Romeo.]

Friar Laurence. So smile the heavens upon this holy act That after-hours with sorrow chide us not!

Romeo. Amen, amen! But come what sorrow can, It cannot countervail the exchange of joy That one short minute gives me in her sight. Do thou but close our hands with holy words, Then love-devouring death do what he dare— It is enough I may but call her mine.
Friar Laurence. These violent delights have violent ends
And in their triumph die, like fire and powder,
Which, as they kiss, consume. The sweetest honey
Is loathsome in his own deliciousness
And in the taste confounds the appetite.
Therefore love moderately: long love doth so;
Too swift arrives as tardy as too slow.

[Enter Juliet.]
Here comes the lady. O, so light a foot
Will ne’er wear out the everlasting flint.
A lover may bestride the gossamer
That idles in the wanton summer air,
And yet not fall; so light is vanity.

Juliet. Good even to my ghostly confessor.

Friar Laurence. Romeo shall thank thee, daughter, for us both.

Juliet. As much to him, else is his thanks too much.

Romeo. Ah, Juliet, if the measure of thy joy
Be heaped like mine, and that thy skill be more
To blazon it, then sweeten with thy breath
This neighbor air, and let rich music’s tongue
Unfold the imagined happiness that both
Receive in either by this dear encounter.

Juliet. Conceit, more rich in matter than in words,
Brags of his substance, not of ornament.
They are but beggars that can count their worth;
But my true love is grown to such excess
I cannot sum up sum of half my wealth.

Friar Laurence. Come, come with me, and we will make short work;
For, by your leaves, you shall not stay alone
Till Holy Church incorporate two in one.

[Exeunt.]
Comprehension

1. Recall  Who challenges Romeo to a duel, and why?

2. Recall  What important message from Romeo does the nurse bring to Juliet?

3. Clarify  Why does Friar Laurence agree to marry Romeo and Juliet despite his reservations? Explain what he hopes this marriage will accomplish.

Text Analysis

4. Reading Shakespearean Drama  Examine the events you recorded in your chart as you read Act Two. Which events seem most crucial in escalating the conflicts in the plot? What theme seems to be emerging? Explain your answers.

5. Make Inferences About Character Motives  Why do Romeo and Juliet rush to get married after declaring their love? Support your inference with evidence from the text. Then explain whether you think the young lovers get married too soon, and why or why not.

6. Analyze Soliloquy and Aside  Identify at least one soliloquy and one aside in Act Two and record them in a chart like the one shown. Complete the chart by explaining what each example reveals about the character speaking.

Text Criticism

8. Author’s Style  Shakespeare is often praised for his masterly use of figurative language, or language that communicates ideas beyond the ordinary, literal meaning of the words. Find two examples of particularly striking figurative language in Act Two and discuss what makes each example effective.
Act Three

SCENE 1  A public place.

Act Two ends with the joyful Romeo and Juliet secretly married. Their happiness, however, is about to end abruptly. In this scene, Mercutio, Benvolio, and Romeo meet Tybalt on the street. Tybalt insults Romeo, but Romeo, who has just returned from his wedding, remains calm. Mercutio, on the other hand, is furious with Tybalt, and they begin to fight. As Romeo tries to separate them, Tybalt stabs Mercutio, who later dies. Romeo then challenges Tybalt, kills him, and flees. The prince arrives and demands an explanation. He announces that Romeo will be killed if he does not leave Verona immediately.

[Enter Mercutio, Benvolio, Page, and Servants.]

Benvolio. I pray thee, good Mercutio, let’s retire. The day is hot, the Capulets abroad, And if we meet, we shall not scape a brawl, For now, these hot days, is the mad blood stirring.

Mercutio. Thou art like one of those fellows that, when he enters the confines of a tavern, claps me his sword upon the table and says “God send me no need of thee!” and by the operation of the second cup draws him on the drawer, when indeed there is no need.

Benvolio. Am I like such a fellow?

Mercutio. Come, come, thou art as hot a Jack in thy mood as any in Italy; and as soon moved to be moody, and as soon moody to be moved.

Benvolio. And what to?

Mercutio. Nay an there were two such, we should have none shortly, for one would kill the other. Thou! why, thou wilt quarrel with a man that hath a hair more or a hair less in his beard than thou hast. Thou wilt quarrel with a man for cracking nuts, having no other reason but because thou hast hazel eyes.

What eye but such an eye would spy out such a quarrel? Thy head is as full of quarrels as an egg is full of meat; and yet thy head hath been beaten as addle as an egg for quarreling. Thou hast quarreled with a man for coughing in the street, because he hath wakened thy dog that hath lain asleep in the sun. Didst thou not fall out with a tailor for wearing his new doublet before Easter? with another for tying his new shoes with old riband? And yet thou wilt tutor me from quarreling!

3–4  we shall . . . stirring: We shall not avoid a fight, since the heat makes people ill-tempered.

7–8  by the . . . drawer: feeling the effects of a second drink, is ready to fight (draw on) the waiter who’s pouring the drinks (drawer).

12–13  as soon moved . . . to be moved: as likely to get angry and start a fight.

15–27  Mercutio teases his friend by insisting that Benvolio is quick to pick a fight, though everyone knows that Benvolio is gentle and peace loving.

25  doublet: jacket.

26  riband: ribbon or laces.

Mercutio and Tybalt duel in the 2004 coproduction of the Chicago Shakespeare Theater and Second City.
Benvolio. An I were so apt to quarrel as thou art, any man should buy the fee simple of my life for an hour and a quarter.

Mercutio. The fee simple? O simple!

[Enter Tybalt and others.]

Benvolio. By my head, here come the Capulets. A

Mercutio. By my heel, I care not.

Tybalt. Follow me close, for I will speak to them. Gentlemen, good den. A word with one of you.

Mercutio. And but one word with one of us? Couple it with something; make it a word and a blow.

Tybalt. You shall find me apt enough to that, sir, an you will give me occasion.

Mercutio. Could you not take some occasion without giving?

Tybalt. Mercutio, thou consortest with Romeo.

Mercutio. Consort? What, dost thou make us minstrels? An thou make minstrels of us, look to hear nothing but discords. Here’s my fiddlestick; here’s that shall make you dance. Zounds, consort!

Benvolio. We talk here in the public haunt of men. Either withdraw unto some private place And reason coldly of your grievances, Or else depart. Here all eyes gaze on us.

Mercutio. Men’s eyes were made to look, and let them gaze.

I will not budge for no man’s pleasure, I.

[Enter Romeo.]

Tybalt. Well, peace be with you, sir. Here comes my man.

Mercutio. But I’ll be hanged, sir, if he wear your livery. Marry, go before to field, he’ll be your follower! Your worship in that sense may call him man.

Tybalt. Romeo, the love I bear thee can afford No better term than this: thou art a villain.

Romeo. Tybalt, the reason that I have to love thee Doth much excuse the appertaining rage To such a greeting. Villain am I none. Therefore farewell. I see thou knowest me not.

Tybalt. Boy, this shall not excuse the injuries That thou hast done me; therefore turn and draw.

Romeo. I do protest I never injured thee, But love thee better than thou canst devise
Till thou shalt know the reason of my love;
And so, good Capulet, which name I tender
As dearly as mine own, be satisfied.

Mercutio. O calm, dishonorable, vile submission!
Alla stoccata carries it away.

[draws]

Tybalt, you ratcatcher, will you walk?

Tybalt. What wouldst thou have with me?

Mercutio. Good King of Cats, nothing but one of your nine lives.
That I mean to make bold withal, and, as you shall use me hereafter, dry-beat the rest of the eight. Will you pluck your sword out of his pilcher by the ears? Make haste, lest mine be about your ears ere it be out.

Tybalt. I am for you.

[draws]

Romeo. Gentle Mercutio, put thy rapier up.

Mercutio. Come, sir, your passado!

[They fight.]

Romeo. Draw, Benvolio; beat down their weapons.

Gentlemen, for shame! forbear this outrage!

Tybalt, Mercutio, the Prince expressly hath Forbid this bandying in Verona streets.

Hold, Tybalt! Good Mercutio!

[Tybalt, under Romeo's arm, thrusts Mercutio in, and flies with his Men.]

Mercutio. I am hurt.

A plague o' both your houses! I am sped.

Is he gone and hath nothing?

Benvolio. What, art thou hurt?

Mercutio. Ay, ay, a scratch, a scratch. Marry, 'tis enough.

Where is my page? Go, villain, fetch a surgeon.

Romeo. Courage, man. The hurt cannot be much.

Mercutio. No, 'tis not so deep as a well, nor so wide as a church door; but 'tis enough, 'twill serve. Ask for me tomorrow, and you shall find me a grave man. I am peppered, I warrant, for this world. A plague o' both your houses! Zounds, a dog, a rat, a mouse, a cat, to scratch a man to death! A braggart, a rogue, a

65 Till thou shalt know the reason of my love;
And so, good Capulet, which name I tender
As dearly as mine own, be satisfied.

66 tender: cherish.

68–70 Mercutio assumes that Romeo is afraid to fight. Alla stoccata is a move used in sword fighting. Mercutio is suggesting that Tybalt has won the battle of words with Romeo. Mercutio then dares Tybalt to step aside and fight (walk).

72–74 nothing but . . . eight: I intend to take one of your nine lives (as a cat supposedly has) and give a beating to the other eight.

76 Alla stoccata: a move in sword fighting.

79 passado: a sword-fighting maneuver.

80–84 Romeo wants Benvolio to help him stop the fight. They are able to hold back Mercutio.

83 bandying: fighting.

85 A plague . . . sped: I curse both the Montagues and the Capulets.
I am destroyed.

90–96 Even as he lies dying, Mercutio continues to joke and make nasty remarks about Tybalt. He makes a pun on the word grave.
villain, that fights by the book of arithmetic! Why the devil came you between us? I was hurt under your arm.

Romeo. I thought all for the best.

Mercutio. Help me into some house, Benvolio, Or I shall faint. A plague o’ both your houses! They have made worms’ meat of me. I have it, And soundly too. Your houses!

[Exit, supported by Benvolio.]

Romeo. This gentleman, the Prince’s near ally, My very friend, hath got this mortal hurt In my behalf—my reputation stained With Tybalt’s slander—Tybalt, that an hour Hath been my kinsman, O sweet Juliet, Thy beauty hath made me effeminate And in my temper softened valor’s steel!

[Reenter Benvolio.]

Benvolio. O Romeo, Romeo, brave Mercutio’s dead! That gallant spirit hath aspired the clouds, Which too untimely here did scorn the earth.

Romeo. This day’s black fate on mo days doth depend; This but begins the woe others must end.

[Reenter Tybalt.]

Benvolio. Here comes the furious Tybalt back again.

Romeo. Alive in triumph, and Mercutio slain? Away to heaven respective lenity, And fire-eyed fury be my conduct now! Now, Tybalt, take the “villain” back again That late thou gavest me, for Mercutio’s soul Is but a little way above our heads, Staying for thine to keep him company. Either thou or I, or both, must go with him.

Tybalt. Thou, wretched boy, that didst consort him here, Shalt with him hence.

Romeo. This shall determine that.

[They fight. Tybalt falls.]

Benvolio. Romeo, away, be gone! The citizens are up, and Tybalt slain. Stand not amazed. The Prince will doom thee death If thou art taken. Hence, be gone, away!

---

TRAGEDY

What curse does Mercutio repeat three times in this scene? Explain what this ominous curse might foreshadow.

102–108 This gentleman . . . valor’s steel: My friend has died protecting my reputation against a man who has been my relative for only an hour. My love for Juliet has made me less manly and brave.

110 aspired: soared to.

112–113 This day’s . . . must end: This awful day will be followed by more of the same.

116 respective lenity: considerate mildness.

CHARACTER

What drives Romeo to challenge Tybalt to fight?

124 The sword fight probably goes on for several minutes, till Romeo runs his sword through Tybalt.
Romeo. O, I am fortune’s fool!

Benvolio. Why dost thou stay?

[Exit Romeo.]

[Enter Citizens.]

Citizen. Which way ran he that killed Mercutio? Tybalt, that murderer, which way ran he?

Benvolio. There lies that Tybalt.

Citizen. Up, sir, go with me. I charge thee in the Prince’s name obey.

[Enter Prince with his Attendants, Montague, Capulet, their Wives, and others.]

Prince. Where are the vile beginners of this fray?

Benvolio. O noble Prince, I can discover all The unlucky manage of this fatal brawl. There lies the man, slain by young Romeo, That slew thy kinsman, brave Mercutio.

Lady Capulet. Tybalt, my cousin! O my brother’s child! O Prince! O cousin! O husband! O, the blood is spilled Of my dear kinsman! Prince, as thou art true, For blood of ours shed blood of Montague. O cousin, cousin!

Prince. Benvenio, who began this bloody fray?

Benvolio. Tybalt, here slain, whom Romeo’s hand did slay. Romeo, that spoke him fair, bid him bethink How nice the quarrel was, and urged withal Your high displeasure. All this—uttered With gentle breath, calm look, knees humbly bowed— Could not take truce with the unruly spleen Of Tybalt deaf to peace, but that he tilts With piercing steel at bold Mercutio’s breast; Who, all as hot, turns deadly point to point, And, with a martial scorn, with one hand beats Cold death aside and with the other sends It back to Tybalt, whose dexterity Retorts it. Romeo he cries aloud, “Hold, friends! friends, part!” and swifter than his tongue, His agile arm beats down their fatal points, And ’twixt them rushes; underneath whose arm An envious thrust from Tybalt hit the life 129 I am fortune’s fool: Fate has made a fool of me.

135–136 Benvolio says he can tell (discover) what happened.

141–142 as thou . . . Montague: If your word is good, you will sentence Romeo to death for killing a Capulet.

146–147 Romeo, that . . . was: Romeo talked calmly (fair) and told Tybalt to think how trivial (nice) the argument was.

150–151 could . . . peace: could not quiet the anger of Tybalt, who would not listen to pleas for peace.

156–157 whose dexterity retorts it: whose skill returns it.

159–160 his agile . . . rushes: He rushed between them and pushed down their swords.
Of stout Mercutio, and then Tybalt fled,
But by-and-by comes back to Romeo,
Who had but newly entertained revenge,
And to’t they go like lightning; for, ere I
Could draw to part them, was stout Tybalt slain;
And, as he fell, did Romeo turn and fly.
This is the truth, or let Benvolio die.

Lady Capulet. He is a kinsman to the Montague;
Affection makes him false, he speaks not true.
Some twenty of them fought in this black strife,
And all those twenty could but kill one life.
I beg for justice, which thou, Prince, must give.
Romeo slew Tybalt; Romeo must not live.

Prince. Romeo slew him; he slew Mercutio.
Who now the price of his dear blood doth owe?
Montague. Not Romeo, Prince; he was Mercutio’s friend;
His fault concludes but what the law should end,
The life of Tybalt.

164 entertained: thought of.

TRAGEDY
Why does Lady Capulet think Benvolio is lying? Paraphrase the accusation she makes, and explain what she begs the prince to do.

178–179 Romeo is guilty only of avenging Mercutio’s death, which the law would have done anyway.
Prince. And for that offense
Immediately we do exile him hence.
I have an interest in your hate's proceeding,
My blood for your rude brawls doth lie a-bleeding;
But I'll amerce you with so strong a fine
That you shall all repent the loss of mine.
I will be deaf to pleading and excuses;
Nor tears nor prayers shall purchase out abuses.
Therefore use none. Let Romeo hence in haste,
Else, when he is found, that hour is his last.
Bear hence this body, and attend our will.
Mercy but murders, pardoning those that kill.
[Exeunt.]

SCENE 2 Capulet's orchard.
The scene begins with Juliet impatiently waiting for night to come so that Romeo can climb to her bedroom on the rope ladder. Suddenly the nurse enters with the terrible news of Tybalt's death and Romeo's banishment. Juliet mourns for the loss of her cousin and her husband and threatens to kill herself. To calm her, the nurse promises to find Romeo and bring him to Juliet before he leaves Verona.

[Enter Juliet alone.]
Juliet. Gallop apace, you fiery-footed steeds,
Toward Phoebus' lodging! Such a wagoner
As Phaëton would whip you to the West,
And bring in cloudy night immediately.
Spread thy close curtain, love-performing night,
That runaways' eyes may wink, and Romeo
Leap to these arms, untalked of and unseen.
Lovers can see to do their amorous rites
By their own beauties; or, if love be blind,
It best agrees with night. Come, civil night,
Thou sober-suited matron, all in black,
And learn me how to lose a winning match,
Played for a pair of stainless maidenhoods.
Hood my unmanned blood bating in my cheeks
With thy black mantle; till strange love, grown bold,
Think true love acted simple modesty.
Come, night; come, Romeo, come; thou day in night;
For thou wilt lie upon the wings of night
Whiter than new snow on a raven's back.
Come, gentle night; come, loving, black-browed night;
Give me my Romeo; and, when he shall die,
Take him and cut him out in little stars,
And he will make the face of heaven so fine
That all the world will be in love with night
And pay no worship to the garish sun.
O, I have bought the mansion of a love,
But not possessed it; and though I am sold,
Not yet enjoyed. So tedious is this day
As is the night before some festival
To an impatient child that hath new robes
And may not wear them. Oh, here comes my nurse,

[Enter Nurse, wringing her hands, with the ladder of cords in her lap.]
And she brings news; and every tongue that speaks
But Romeo's name speaks heavenly eloquence.
Now, nurse, what news? What hast thou there? the cords
That Romeo bid thee fetch?

Nurse. Ay, ay, the cords.
Juliet. Ay me! what news? Why dost thou wring thy hands?
Nurse. Ah, well-a-day! he's dead, he's dead, he's dead!
We are undone, lady, we are undone!
Alack the day! he's gone, he's killed, he's dead!

Juliet. Can heaven be so envious?

Nurse. Romeo can,
Though heaven cannot. O Romeo, Romeo!
Who ever would have thought it? Romeo!

Juliet. What devil art thou that dost torment me thus?
This torture should be roared in dismal hell.

Hath Romeo slain himself? Say thou but "I,"
And that bare vowel "I" shall poison more
Than the death-darting eye of a cockatrice.
I am not I, if there be such an "I,"
Or those eyes shut, that make thee answer "I."
If he be slain, say "I," or if not, "no."
Brief sounds determine of my weal or woe.

Nurse. I saw the wound, I saw it with mine eyes, (God save the mark!) here on his manly breast.
A piteous corse, a bloody piteous corse;
Pale, pale as ashes, all bedaubed in blood,
All in gore blood. I swounded at the sight.

Juliet. O, break, my heart! poor bankrout, break at once!
To prison, eyes; ne'er look on liberty!
Vile earth, to earth resign; end motion here,
And thou and Romeo press one heavy bier!

26–27 I have . . . possessed it: Juliet protests that she has gone through the wedding ceremony (bought the mansion) but is still waiting to enjoy the rewards of marriage.

34 the cords: the rope ladder.

37–42 well-a-day: an expression used when someone has bad news. The nurse wails and moans without clearly explaining what has happened, leading Juliet to assume that Romeo is dead.

Dramatic Irony
How is Juliet's belief that her new husband is dead an example of dramatic irony?

45–50 Juliet’s “I” means “aye,” or “yes.” A cockatrice is a mythological beast whose glance kills its victims.

51 my weal or woe: my happiness or sorrow.

53–56 God . . . mark: an expression meant to scare off evil powers, similar to “Knock on wood”; corse: corpse; swounded: fainted.

57–60 Juliet say her heart is broken and bankrupt (bankrout). She wants to be buried with Romeo, sharing his burial platform (bier).
Nurse. O Tybalt, Tybalt, the best friend I had!
O courteous Tybalt! honest gentleman!
That ever I should live to see thee dead!

Juliet. What storm is this that blows so contrary?
65 Is Romeo slaughtered, and is Tybalt dead?
My dear-loved cousin, and my dearer lord?
Then, dreadful trumpet, sound the general doom!
For who is living, if those two are gone?

Nurse. Tybalt is gone, and Romeo banished;
Romeo that killed him, he is banished.

Juliet. O God! Did Romeo's hand shed Tybalt's blood?

Nurse. It did! it did! alas the day, it did!

Juliet. O serpent heart, hid with a flow'ring face!
Did ever dragon keep so fair a cave?
75 Beautiful tyrant! fiend angelical!
Dove-feathered raven! wolvish-ravening lamb!
Despised substance of divinest show!
Just opposite to what thou justly seemst,
A damned saint, an honorable villain!

O nature, what hadst thou to do in hell
When thou didst bower the spirit of a fiend
In mortal paradise of such sweet flesh?
Was ever book containing such vile matter
So fairly bound? O, that deceit should dwell
In such a gorgeous palace!

Nurse. There's no trust,
No faith, no honesty in men; all perjured,
All forsworn, all naught, all dissemblers.
Ah, where's my man? Give me some aqua vitae.
These griefs, these woes, these sorrows make me old.
Shame come to Romeo!

Juliet. Blistered be thy tongue
For such a wish! He was not born to shame.
Upon his brow shame is ashamed to sit;
For 'tis a throne where honor may be crowned
Sole monarch of the universal earth.
95 O, what a beast was I to chide at him!

Nurse. Will you speak well of him that killed your cousin?

Juliet. Shall I speak ill of him that is my husband?
Ah, poor my lord, what tongue shall smooth thy name
When I, thy three-hours' wife, have mangled it?
100 But wherefore, villain, didst thou kill my cousin?
That villain cousin would have killed my husband.
Back, foolish tears, back to your native spring!
Your tributary drops belong to woe,
Which you, mistaking, offer up to joy.

My husband lives, that Tybalt would have slain;
And Tybalt’s dead, that would have slain my husband.
All this is comfort; wherefore weep I then?
Some word there was, worser than Tybalt’s death,
That murdered me. I would forget it fain;

But O, it presses to my memory
Like damned guilty deeds to sinners’ minds!
“Tybalt is dead, and Romeo—banished.”
That “banished,” that one word “banished,”
Hath slain ten thousand Tybalts. Tybalt’s death
Was woe enough, if it had ended there;
Or, if sour woe delights in fellowship
And needly will be ranked with other griefs,
Why followed not, when she said “Tybalt’s dead,”
Thy father, or thy mother, nay, or both,
Which modern lamentation might have moved?
But with a rearward following Tybalt’s death,
“Romeo is banished”—to speak that word
Is father, mother, Tybalt, Romeo, Juliet,
All slain, all dead. “Romeo is banished”—
There is no end, no limit, measure, bound,
In that word’s death; no words can that woe sound.
Where is my father and my mother, nurse?

Nurse. Weeping and wailing over Tybalt’s corse.
Will you go to them? I will bring you thither.

Juliet. Wash they his wounds with tears? Mine shall be spent,
When theirs are dry, for Romeo’s banishment.
Take up those cords. Poor ropes, you are beguiled,
Both you and I, for Romeo is exiled.
He made you for a highway to my bed;

But I, a maid, die maiden-widowed.
Come, cords; come, nurse. I’ll to my wedding bed;
And death, not Romeo, take my maidenhead!

Nurse. Hie to your chamber. I’ll find Romeo
To comfort you. I wot well where he is.

Hark ye, your Romeo will be here at night.
I’ll to him; he is hid at Laurence’ cell.

Juliet. O, find him! give this ring to my true knight
And bid him come to take his last farewell.

[Exit.]
SCENE 3  Friar Laurence’s cell.

Friar Laurence tells Romeo of his banishment, and Romeo collapses in grief. When he learns from the nurse that Juliet, too, is in despair, he threatens to stab himself. The friar reacts by suggesting a plan. Romeo is to spend a few hours with Juliet and then escape to Mantua. While he is away, the friar will announce the wedding and try to get a pardon from the prince.

[Enter Friar Laurence.]

Friar Laurence. Romeo, come forth; come forth, thou fearful man.
Affliction is enamored of thy parts,
And thou art wedded to calamity.

[Enter Romeo.]

Romeo. Father, what news? What is the Prince’s doom?
What sorrow craves acquaintance at my hand
That I yet know not?

Friar Laurence. Too familiar
Is my dear son with such sour company.
I bring thee tidings of the Prince’s doom.

Romeo. What less than doomsday is the Prince’s doom?

Friar Laurence. A gentler judgment vanished from his lips—
Not body’s death, but body’s banishment.

Romeo. Ha, banishment? Be merciful, say “death”;
For exile hath more terror in his look,
Much more than death. Do not say “banishment.”

Friar Laurence. Hence from Verona art thou banished.
Be patient, for the world is broad and wide.

Romeo. There is no world without Verona walls,
But purgatory, torture, hell itself.
Hence banished is banish’d from the world,
And world’s exile is death. Then “banishment,”
Is death misterm’d. Calling death “banishment,”
Thou cuttest my head off with a golden axe
And smilest upon the stroke that murders me.

Friar Laurence. O deadly sin! O rude unthankfulness!
Thy fault our law calls death; but the kind Prince,
Taking thy part, hath rushed aside the law,
And turned that black word death to banishment.
This is dear mercy, and thou seest it not.

Romeo. ’Tis torture, and not mercy. Heaven is here,
Where Juliet lives; and every cat and dog
And little mouse, every unworthy thing,
Live here in heaven and may look on her;
But Romeo may not. More validity,
More honorable state, more courtship lives
In carrion flies than Romeo. They may seize
On the white wonder of dear Juliet's hand
And steal immortal blessing from her lips,
Who, even in pure and vestal modesty,
Still blush, as thinking their own kisses sin;
But Romeo may not—he is banished.
This may flies do, when I from this must fly;
They are free men, but I am banished.
And sayst thou yet that exile is not death?
Hadst thou no poison mixed, no sharp-ground knife,
No sudden mean of death, though ne'er so mean,
But “banished” to kill me—“banished”?
O friar, the damned use that word in hell;
Howling attends it! How hast thou the heart,
Being a divine, a ghostly confessor,
A sin-absolver, and my friend professed,
To mangle me with that word “banished”?
Friar Laurence. Thou fond mad man, hear me a little speak.
Romeo. O, thou wilt speak again of banishment.
Friar Laurence. I'll give thee armor to keep off that word;
Adversity's sweet milk, philosophy,
To comfort thee, though thou art banished.
Romeo. Yet “banished”? Hang up philosophy!
Unless philosophy can make a Juliet,
Displant a town, reverse a prince's doom,
It helps not, it prevails not. Talk no more.
Friar Laurence. O, then I see that madmen have no ears.
Romeo. How should they, when that wise men have no eyes?
Friar Laurence. Let me dispute with thee of thy estate.
Romeo. Thou canst not speak of that thou dost not feel.
Wert thou as young as I, Juliet thy love,
An hour but married, Tybalt murdered,
Doting like me, and like me banished,
Then mightst thou speak, then mightst thou tear thy hair,
And fall upon the ground, as I do now,
Taking the measure of an unmade grave.
[Nurse knocks within.]
Friar Laurence. Arise; one knocks. Good Romeo, hide thyself.
Romeo. Not I; unless the breath of heartsick groans
Mist-like infold me from the search of eyes.
[knock]
Friar Laurence. Hark, how they knock! Who’s there? Romeo, arise;
Thou wilt be taken.—Stay awhile!—Stand up;
[knock]
Run to my study.—By-and-by!—God’s will,
What simpleness is this.—I come, I come!
[knock]
Who knocks so hard? Whence come you? What’s your will?
Nurse [within]. Let me come in, and you shall know my errand.
I come from Lady Juliet.
Friar Laurence. Welcome then.
[Enter Nurse.]
Nurse. O holy friar, O, tell me, holy friar,
Where is my lady’s lord, where’s Romeo?
Friar Laurence. There on the ground, with his own tears made drunk.
Nurse. O, he is even in my mistress’ case,
Just in her case! O woeful sympathy!
Piteous predicament! Even so lies she,
Blub’ring and weeping, weeping and blubbering.
Stand up, stand up! Stand, an you be a man.
For Juliet’s sake, for her sake, rise and stand!
Why should you fall into so deep an O?
Romeo [rises]. Nurse—
Nurse. Ah sir! ah sir! Well, death’s the end of all.
Romeo. Spakest thou of Juliet? How is it with her?
Doth not she think me an old murderer,
Now I have stained the childhood of our joy
With blood removed but little from her own?
Where is she? and how doth she? and what says
My concealed lady to our canceled love?
Nurse. O, she says nothing, sir, but weeps and weeps;
And now falls on her bed, and then starts up,
And Tybalt calls; and then on Romeo cries,
And then down falls again.
Romeo. As if that name,
Shot from the deadly level of a gun,
Did murder her; as that name’s cursed hand
 Murdered her kinsman. O tell me, friar, tell me,
In what vile part of this anatomy
Doth my name lodge? Tell me, that I may sack
The hateful mansion.
[draws his dagger]
Friar Laurence. Hold thy desperate hand.
Art thou a man? Thy form cries out thou art;
Thy tears are womanish, thy wild acts denote
The unreasonable fury of a beast.
Unseemly woman in a seeming man!
Or ill-beseeming beast in seeming both!
Thou hast amazed me. By my holy order,
I thought thy disposition better tempered.
Hast thou slain Tybalt? Wilt thou slay thyself?
And slay thy lady too that lives in thee,
By doing damned hate upon thyself?
Why railst thou on thy birth, the heaven, and earth?
Since birth and heaven and earth, all three do meet
In thee at once; which thou at once wouldst lose.
Fie, fie, thou shamest thy shape, thy love, thy wit,
Which, like a usurer, abounds in all,
And usest none in that true use indeed
Which should bedeck thy shape, thy love, thy wit.
Thy noble shape is but a form of wax,
Digressing from the valor of a man;
Thy dear love sworn but hollow perjury,
Killing that love which thou hast vowed to cherish;
Thy wit, that ornament to shape and love,
Misshapen in the conduct of them both,
Like powder in a skillless soldier’s flask,
Is set afire by thine own ignorance,
And thou dismembered with thine own defense.
What, rouse thee, man! Thy Juliet is alive,
For whose dear sake thou wast but lately dead.
There art thou happy. Tybalt would kill thee,
But thou slewest Tybalt. There art thou happy;
The law, that threatened death, becomes thy friend
And turns it to exile. There art thou happy.
A pack of blessings light upon thy back;
Happiness courts thee in her best array;
But, like a misbehaved and sullen wench,
Thou poutst upon thy fortune and thy love.
Take heed, take heed, for such die miserable.
Go get thee to thy love, as was decreed,
Ascend her chamber, hence and comfort her.
But look thou stay not till the watch be set,
For then thou canst not pass to Mantua,
Where thou shalt live till we can find a time
To blaze your marriage, reconcile your friends,
Beg pardon of the Prince, and call thee back
With twenty hundred thousand times more joy

108–125 Hold thy . . . bedeck thy shape, thy love, thy wit: You’re not acting like a man. Would you send your soul to hell by committing suicide (doing damned hate upon thyself)? Why do you curse your birth, heaven, and earth? You are refusing to make good use of your advantages, just as a miser refuses to spend his money.

126–134 The friar explains how by acting as he is, Romeo is misusing his shape (his outer form or body), his love, and his wit (his mind or intellect).

135–140 The friar tells Romeo to count his blessings instead of feeling sorry for himself. He lists the things Romeo has to be thankful for. What three blessings does the friar mention?

Language Coach
Multiple Meanings The words court and array (line 142) both have multiple meanings. Here, courts means “woos”; try to figure out the meaning here of array.

148–149 look . . . Mantua: Leave before the guards take their places at the city gates; otherwise you will not be able to escape to Mantua.

151 blaze . . . friends: announce your marriage and get the families (friends) to stop feuding.
Than thou wentst forth in lamentation.

Go before, nurse. Commend me to thy lady,
And bid her hasten all the house to bed,
Which heavy sorrow makes them apt unto.
Romeo is coming.

Nurse. O Lord, I could have stayed here all the night
To hear good counsel. O, what learning is!
My lord, I'll tell my lady you will come.

Romeo. Do so, and bid my sweet prepare to chide.

[Nurse offers to go and turns again.]

Nurse. Here is a ring she bid me give you, sir.
Hie you, make haste, for it grows very late.

[Exit.]

Romeo. How well my comfort is revived by this!

Friar Laurence. Go hence; good night; and here stands all your state:
Either be gone before the watch be set,
Or by the break of day disguised from hence.
Sojourn in Mantua. I'll find out your man,
And he shall signify from time to time
Every good hap to you that chances here.
Give me thy hand. 'Tis late. Farewell; good night.

Romeo. But that a joy past joy calls out on me,
It were a grief so brief to part with thee.

Farewell.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE 4  Capulet's house.

In this scene, Paris visits the Capulets, who are mourning the death of Tybalt.
He says he realizes that this is no time to talk of marriage. Capulet, however, disagrees; he decides that Juliet should marry Paris on Thursday, three days away. He tells Lady Capulet to inform Juliet immediately.

[Enter Capulet, Lady Capulet, and Paris.]

Capulet. Things have fall'n out, sir, so unluckily
That we have had no time to move our daughter.
Look you, she loved her kinsman Tybalt dearly,
And so did I. Well, we were born to die.
'Tis very late; she'll not come down tonight.
I promise you, but for your company,
I would have been abed an hour ago.

Paris. These times of woe afford no time to woo.
Madam, good night. Commend me to your daughter.

Lady Capulet. I will, and know her mind early tomorrow;
Tonight she’s mewed up to her heaviness.

[Paris offers to go and Capulet calls him again.]

Capulet. Sir Paris, I will make a desperate tender
Of my child’s love. I think she will be ruled
In all respects by me; nay more, I doubt it not.

Wife, go you to her ere you go to bed;
Acquaint her here of my son Paris’ love
And bid her (mark you me?) on Wednesday next—
But, soft! what day is this?

Capulet. Monday! ha, ha! Well, Wednesday is too soon.
A Thursday let it be—a Thursday, tell her,
She shall be married to this noble earl.
Will you be ready? Do you like this haste?
We’ll keep no great ado—a friend or two;
For hark you, Tybalt being slain so late,
It may be thought we held him carelessly,
Being our kinsman, if we revel much.
Therefore we’ll have some half a dozen friends,
And there an end. But what say you to Thursday?

Paris. My lord, I would that Thursday were tomorrow.

Capulet. Well, get you gone. A Thursday be it then.
Go you to Juliet ere you go to bed;
Prepare her, wife, against this wedding day.
Farewell, my lord.—Light to my chamber, ho!
Afore me, it is so very very late
That we may call it early by-and-by.
Good night.

[Exeunt.]
Stage Combat

A character’s movements can convey as much as his or her words. In fight scenes, blocking is used to decide exactly how the actors will move. From a stylistic point of view, how are the movements captured in these photographs different? Which fight looks most realistic, and why?
SCENE 5  Capulet’s orchard.
Romeo and Juliet have spent the night together, but before daylight, Romeo leaves for Mantua. As soon as he leaves, Lady Capulet comes in to tell Juliet of her father’s decision—that she will marry Count Paris on Thursday. Juliet is very upset and refuses to go along with the plan. Juliet’s father goes into a rage at her disobedience and tells her that she will marry Paris or he will disown her.

The nurse advises Juliet to wed Paris, since her marriage to Romeo is over and Paris is a better man anyway. Juliet, now angry with the nurse, decides to go to Friar Laurence for help.

[Enter Romeo and Juliet above, at the window.]

Juliet. Wilt thou be gone? It is not yet near day.
It was the nightingale, and not the lark,
That pierced the fearful hollow of thine ear.
Nightly she sings on yond pomegranate tree.

Believe me, love, it was the nightingale.

Romeo. It was the lark, the herald of the morn;
No nightingale. Look, love, what envious streaks
Do lace the severing clouds in yonder East.
Night’s candles are burnt out, and jocund day
Stands tiptoe on the misty mountain tops.
I must be gone and live, or stay and die.

Juliet. Yond light is not daylight; I know it, I.
It is some meteor that the sun exhales
To be to thee this night a torchbearer
And light thee on thy way to Mantua.
Therefore stay yet; thou needst not to be gone.

Romeo. Let me be ta’en, let me be put to death.
I am content, so thou wilt have it so.
I’ll say yon grey is not the morning’s eye,
’Tis but the pale reflex of Cynthia’s brow;
Nor that is not the lark whose notes do beat
The vaulty heaven so high above our heads.
I have more care to stay than will to go.
Come, death, and welcome! Juliet wills it so.

How is’t, my soul? Let’s talk; it is not day.

Juliet. It is, it is! Hie hence, be gone, away!
It is the lark that sings so out of tune,
Straining harsh discords and unpleasing sharps.
Some say the lark makes sweet division;
This doth not so, for she divideth us.
Some say the lark and loathed toad changed eyes;
O, now I would they had changed voices too,

2  It was . . . lark: The nightingale sings at night; the lark sings in the morning.
What is Juliet trying to get Romeo to believe?

9  night’s candles: stars.

12–25 Juliet continues to pretend it is night to keep Romeo from leaving.
Romeo gives in and says he’ll stay if Juliet wishes it, even if staying means death.

20  reflex of Cynthia’s brow: reflection of the moon. Cynthia is another name for Diana, the Roman goddess of the moon. She was often pictured with a crescent moon on her forehead.

26  Romeo’s mention of death frightens Juliet, and she urges him to leave quickly.

29  division: melody.

31–34  I wish the lark had the voice of the hated (loathed) toad, since its voice is frightening us apart and acting as a morning song for hunters (hunt’s-up).
Since arm from arm that voice doth us affray,
Hunting thee hence with hunt’s-up to the day!
O, now be gone! More light and light it grows.

Romeo. More light and light—more dark and dark our woes!

[Enter Nurse, hastily.]

Nurse. Madam!

Juliet. Nurse?

Nurse. Your lady mother is coming to your chamber.

The day is broke; be wary, look about.

[Exit.]

Juliet. Then, window, let day in, and let life out.

Romeo. Farewell, farewell! One kiss, and I’ll descend.

[He starts down the ladder.]

Juliet. Art thou gone so, my lord, my love, my friend?
I must hear from thee every day in the hour,
For in a minute there are many days.
O, by this count I shall be much in years
Ere I again behold my Romeo!

Romeo. Farewell!
I will omit no opportunity
That may convey my greetings, love, to thee.

Juliet. O, thinkst thou we shall ever meet again?

Romeo. I doubt it not; and all these woes shall serve
For sweet discourses in our time to come.

Juliet. O God, I have an ill-divining soul!
Methinks I see thee, now thou art below,
As one dead in the bottom of a tomb.
Either my eyesight fails, or thou lookst pale.

Romeo. And trust me, love, in my eye so do you.
Dry sorrow drinks our blood. Adieu! adieu!

[Exit.]

Juliet. O Fortune, Fortune! all men call thee fickle.
If thou art fickle, what dost thou with him
That is renowned for faith? Be fickle, Fortune,
For then I hope thou wilt not keep him long
But send him back.

Lady Capulet [within]. Ho, daughter! are you up?

Juliet. Who is’t that calls? It is my lady mother.
Is she not down so late, or up so early?
What unaccustomed cause procures her hither?

Language Coach

Etymology A word’s etymology is its history. The word affray (line 33) is an archaic (outdated) verb that comes from the Middle English word affraien, meaning “to frighten.” What common English adjective comes from this same Middle English word?

46 much in years: very old.

54–56 I have . . . tomb: Juliet sees an evil vision of the future. What is her vision?

59 Dry . . . blood: People believed that sorrow drained the blood from the heart, causing a sad person to look pale.

60–62 fickle: changeable in loyalty or affection. Juliet asks fickle Fortune why it has anything to do with Romeo, who is the opposite of fickle.

67 What . . . hither: What unusual reason brings her here?
Lady Capulet. Why, how now, Juliet?

Juliet. Madam, I am not well.

Lady Capulet. Evermore weeping for your cousin’s death?

What, wilt thou wash him from his grave with tears?
An if thou couldst, thou couldst not make him live.
Therefore have done. Some grief shows much of love;
But much of grief shows still some want of wit.

Juliet. Yet let me weep for such a feeling loss.

Lady Capulet. So shall you feel the loss, but not the friend
Which you weep for.

Juliet. Feeling so the loss,
I cannot choose but ever weep the friend.

Lady Capulet. Well, girl, thou weepst not so much for his death
As that the villain lives which slaughtered him.

Juliet. What villain, madam?

Lady Capulet. That same villain Romeo.

Juliet [aside]. Villain and he be many miles asunder.—
God pardon him! I do, with all my heart;
And yet no man like he doth grieve my heart.

Lady Capulet. That is because the traitor murderer lives.

Juliet. Ay, madam, from the reach of these my hands.
Would none but I might venge my cousin’s death!

Lady Capulet. We will have vengeance for it, fear thou not.
Then weep no more. I’ll send to one in Mantua,
Where that same banished runagate doth live,
Shall give him such an unaccustomed dram
That he shall soon keep Tybalt company;
And then I hope thou wilt be satisfied.

Juliet. Indeed I never shall be satisfied
With Romeo till I behold him—dead—
Is my poor heart so for a kinsman vexed.
Madam, if you could find out but a man
To bear a poison, I would temper it;
That Romeo should, upon receipt thereof,
Soon sleep in quiet. O, how my heart abhors
To hear him named and cannot come to him,
To wreak the love I bore my cousin Tybalt
Upon his body that hath slaughtered him!

Lady Capulet. Find thou the means, and I’ll find such a man.
But now I’ll tell thee joyful tidings, girl.

69–70 What does Lady Capulet think Juliet is crying about?

72–73 have . . . wit: Stop crying (have done). A little grief is evidence of love, while too much grief shows a lack of good sense (want of wit).

81–102 In these lines Juliet’s words have double meanings. To avoid lying to her mother, she chooses her words carefully. They can mean what her mother wants to hear—or what Juliet really has on her mind.

89 runagate: runaway.

90 unaccustomed dram: poison.

93–102 Dead could refer either to Romeo or to Juliet’s heart. Juliet says that if her mother could find someone to carry a poison to Romeo, she would mix (temper) it herself.
Juliet. And joy comes well in such a needy time. What are they, I beseech your ladyship?

Lady Capulet. Well, well, thou hast a careful father, child; One who, to put thee from thy heaviness, Hath sorted out a sudden day of joy That thou expects not nor I looked not for.

Juliet. Madam, in happy time! What day is that?

Lady Capulet. Marry, my child, early next Thursday morn The gallant, young, and noble gentleman, The County Paris, at Saint Peter’s Church, Shall happily make thee there a joyful bride.

Juliet. Now by Saint Peter’s Church, and Peter too, He shall not make me there a joyful bride! I wonder at this haste, that I must wed Ere he that should be husband comes to woo.

I pray you tell my lord and father, madam, I will not marry yet; and when I do, I swear It shall be Romeo, whom you know I hate, Rather than Paris. These are news indeed!

Lady Capulet. Here comes your father. Tell him so yourself,

[Enter Capulet and Nurse.]

Capulet. When the sun sets the air doth drizzle dew, But for the sunset of my brother’s son It rains downright. How now? a conduit, girl? What, still in tears? Evermore show’ring? In one little body Thou counterfeittest a bark, a sea, a wind: For still thy eyes, which I may call the sea, Do ebb and flow with tears; the bark thy body is, Sailing in this salt flood; the winds, thy sighs, Who, raging with thy tears and they with them, Without a sudden calm will overset Thy tempest-tossed body. How now, wife? Have you delivered to her our decree?

Lady Capulet. Ay, sir; but she will none, she gives you thanks.

I would the fool were married to her grave!

Capulet. Soft! take me with you, take me with you, wife. How? Will she none? Doth she not give us thanks? Is she not proud? Doth she not count her blest, Unworthy as she is, that we have wrought So worthy a gentleman to be her bridegroom?
Juliet. Not proud you have, but thankful that you have.
Proud can I never be of what I hate,
But thankful even for hate that is meant love.

Capulet. How, how, how, how, choplogic? What is this?
“Proud”—and “I thank you”—and “I thank you not”—
And yet “not proud”? Mistress minion you,
Thank me no thankings, nor proud me no Proud-er,
But fettle your fine joints ’gainst Thursday next
To go with Paris to Saint Peter’s Church,
Or I will drag thee on a hurdle thither.
Out, you green-sickness carrion! out, you baggage!
You tallow-face!

Lady Capulet. Fie, fie; what, are you mad?

Juliet. Good father, I beseech you on my knees,
[She kneels down.]
Hear me with patience but to speak a word.

Capulet. Hang thee, young baggage! disobedient wretch!
I tell thee what—get thee to church a Thursday
Or never after look me in the face.
Speak not, reply not, do not answer me!
My fingers itch. Wife, we scarce thought us blest
That God had lent us but this only child;
But now I see this one is one too much,
And that we have a curse in having her.
Out on her, hilding!

Nurse. God in heaven bless her!
You are to blame, my lord, to rate her so.

Capulet. And why, my Lady Wisdom? Hold your tongue,
Good Prudence. Smatter with your gossips, go!

Nurse. I speak no treason.

Capulet. O, God-i-god-en!

Nurse. May not one speak?

Capulet. Peace, you mumbling fool!
Utter your gravity o’er a gossip’s bowl,
For here we need it not.

Lady Capulet. You are too hot.

Capulet. God’s bread! it makes me mad. Day, night, late, early,
At home, abroad, alone, in company,
Waking or sleeping, still my care hath been
To have her matched; and having now provided
A gentleman of princely parentage,
Of fair demesnes, youthful, and nobly trained,
Stuffed, as they say, with honorable parts,
Proportioned as one's thought would wish a man—
And then to have a wretched puling fool,
A whining mammet, in her fortunes tender,
To answer "I'll not wed, I cannot love;
I am too young, I pray you pardon me!"
But, an you will not wed, I'll pardon you.
Graze where you will, you shall not house with me.
Look to't, think on't; I do not use to jest.
Thursday is near; lay hand on heart, advise:
An you be mine, I'll give you to my friend;
An you be not, hang, beg, starve, die in the streets,
For, by my soul, I'll ne'er acknowledge thee,
Nor what is mine shall never do thee good.
Trust to't. Bethink you. I'll not be forsworn.

[Exit.]

Juliet. Is there no pity sitting in the clouds
That sees into the bottom of my grief?
O sweet my mother, cast me not away!
Delay this marriage for a month, a week;
Or if you do not, make the bridal bed
In that dim monument where Tybalt lies.

Lady Capulet. Talk not to me, for I'll not speak a word.
Do as thou wilt, for I have done with thee.

[Exit.]

Juliet. O God!—O nurse, how shall this be prevented?
My husband is on earth, my faith in heaven.
How shall that faith return again to earth
Unless that husband send it me from heaven
By leaving earth? Comfort me, counsel me.

Alack, alack, that heaven should practice stratagems
Upon so soft a subject as myself!
What sayst thou? Hast thou not a word of joy?
Some comfort, nurse.

Nurse. Faith, here it is.
Romeo is banish'd; and all the world to nothing
That he dares ne'er come back to challenge you;
Or if he do, it needs must be by stealth.
Then, since the case so stands as now it doth,
I think it best you married with the County.
O, he's a lovely gentleman!

Romeo's a dishclout to him. An eagle, madam,
Hath not so green, so quick, so fair an eye
As Paris hath. Beshrew my very heart,
I think you are happy in this second match,
For it excels your first; or if it did not,
Your first is dead—or ’twere as good he were
As living here and you no use of him.

Juliet. Speakst thou this from thy heart?

Nurse. And from my soul too; else beshrew them both.

Juliet. Amen!

Nurse. What?

Juliet. Well, thou hast comforted me marvelous much.
Go in; and tell my lady I am gone,
Having displeased my father, to Laurence’ cell,
To make confession and to be absolved.

Nurse. Marry, I will; and this is wisely done.

[Exit.]

Juliet. Ancient damnation! O most wicked fiend!
Is it more sin to wish me thus forsworn,
Or to dispraise my lord with that same tongue
Which she hath praised him with above compare
So many thousand times? Go, counselor!
Thou and my bosom henceforth shall be twain.
I'll to the friar to know his remedy.
If all else fail, myself have power to die.

[Exit.]

---

222 beshrew: curse.
223–225 This new marriage will be better than the first, which is as good as over.

229 Amen: I agree—that is, curse your heart and soul.

236–238 ancient damnation: old devil; dispraise: criticize.

241 Thou . . . twain: I'll no longer tell you my secrets.

CHARACTER
How has Juliet's relationship with the nurse changed? Citing details from their interactions, explain the main reason for the change.
Comprehension

1. Recall How is Romeo accidentally responsible for Mercutio’s death?
2. Recall Why does Prince Escalus banish Romeo from Verona?
3. Recall What promise does Lord Capulet make to Paris?
4. Clarify Why does Lord Capulet become so enraged with Juliet?

Literary Analysis

5. Reading Shakespearean Drama Review your list detailing the events in Act Three. What event in this act causes the most problems for Romeo and Juliet? Cite evidence to support your answer.

6. Analyze Character Motivation What is Romeo’s motivation for killing Tybalt? What are the consequences of this action? Citing evidence, explain whether you think Romeo’s behavior is justified revenge or a disastrous mistake.

7. Interpreting Allusions Find two allusions in Act Three, and record them in a chart like the one shown. Complete the chart by describing what each allusion is a reference to and explaining what each means.

8. Evaluate Characters Compare and contrast the behaviors of the nurse and Friar Laurence in Act Three. On the basis of their actions and interactions with other characters, which of the two would you trust more if you were Romeo or Juliet? Explain, citing evidence from the play.

Literary Criticism

9. Philosophical Context In the first three acts of Romeo and Juliet, both the Chorus and the characters make frequent references to the role of fate in life. How does this notion of fate differ from contemporary views? Do people still think this way today? Explain your answer.
Act Four

SCENE 1 Friar Laurence’s cell.

When Juliet arrives at Friar Laurence’s cell, she is upset to find Paris there making arrangements for their wedding. When Paris leaves, the panicked Juliet tells the friar that if he has no solution to her problem, she will kill herself. The friar explains his plan. Juliet will drink a potion he has made from his herbs, which will put her in a deathlike coma. When she wakes up two days later in the family tomb, Romeo will be waiting for her, and they will escape to Mantua together.

[Enter Friar Laurence and Paris.]

Friar Laurence. On Thursday, sir? The time is very short.

Paris. My father Capulet will have it so, And I am nothing slow to slack his haste.

Friar Laurence. You say you do not know the lady’s mind.

Uneven is the course; I like it not. A

Paris. Immoderately she weeps for Tybalt’s death, And therefore have I little talked of love; For Venus smiles not in a house of tears. Now, sir, her father counts it dangerous That she do give her sorrow so much sway, And in his wisdom hastes our marriage To stop the inundation of her tears, Which, too much minded by herself alone, May be put from her by society.

Now do you know the reason of this haste.

Friar Laurence [aside]. I would I knew not why it should be slowed.— Look, sir, here comes the lady toward my cell.

[Enter Juliet.]

Paris. Happily met, my lady and my wife!

Juliet. That may be, sir, when I may be a wife.

Paris. That may be must be, love, on Thursday next.

Juliet. What must be shall be.

Friar Laurence. That’s a certain text.

Paris. Come you to make confession to this father?

Juliet. To answer that, I should confess to you.

2–3 My . . . haste: Capulet is eager to have the wedding on Thursday and so am I.

4–5 You . . . course: You don’t know how Juliet feels about this. It’s a very uncertain (uneven) plan.

A CHARACTER

What is the friar’s real motive for wanting to slow down the wedding preparations?

13–14 which . . . society: which, thought about too much by her in privacy, may be put from her mind if she is forced to be with others. According to Paris, why does Capulet want Juliet to marry so quickly?

19–28 Juliet once again chooses her words carefully to avoid lying and to avoid telling her secret.

Friar Laurence mixes a potion in the Royal Shakespeare Company’s 1995 production.
Paris. Do not deny to him that you love me.

Juliet. I will confess to you that I love him.

Paris. So will ye, I am sure, that you love me.

Juliet. If I do so, it will be of more price,
Being spoke behind your back, than to your face.

Paris. Poor soul, thy face is much abused with tears.

Juliet. The tears have got small victory by that,
For it was bad enough before their spite.

Paris. Thou wrongst it more than tears with that report.

Juliet. That is no slander, sir, which is a truth;
And what I spake, I spake it to my face.

Paris. Thy face is mine, and thou hast slandered it.

Juliet. It may be so, for it is not mine own.
Are you at leisure, holy father, now,
Or shall I come to you at evening mass?

Friar Laurence. My leisure serves me, pensive daughter, now.

My lord, we must entreat the time alone.

Paris. God shield I should disturb devotion!
Juliet, on Thursday early will I rouse ye.
Till then, adieu, and keep this holy kiss.

[Exit.]

Juliet. O, shut the door! and when thou hast done so,
Come weep with me—past hope, past cure, past help!

Friar Laurence. Ah, Juliet, I already know thy grief;
It strains me past the compass of my wits.
I hear thou must, and nothing may prorogue it,
On Thursday next be married to this County.

Juliet. Tell me not, friar, that thou hearst of this,
Unless thou tell me how I may prevent it.
If in thy wisdom thou canst give no help,
Do thou but call my resolution wise
And with this knife I’ll help it presently.

God joined my heart and Romeo’s, thou our hands;
And ere this hand, by thee to Romeo’s sealed,
Shall be the label to another deed,
Or my true heart with treacherous revolt
Turn to another, this shall slay them both.
Therefore, out of thy long-experienced time,
Give me some present counsel; or, behold, ’Twixt my extremes and me this bloody knife Shall play the umpire, arbitrating that Which the commission of thy years and art Could to no issue of true honor bring. Be not so long to speak. I long to die If what thou speakest speak not of remedy.

Friar Laurence. Hold, daughter, I do spy a kind of hope, Which craves as desperate an execution As that is desperate which we would prevent. If, rather than to marry County Paris, Thou hast the strength of will to slay thyself, Then is it likely thou wilt undertake A thing like death to chide away this shame, That copes with death himself to scape from it; And, if thou darest, I’ll give thee remedy.

Juliet. O, bid me leap, rather than marry Paris, From off the battlements of yonder tower, Or walk in thievish ways, or bid me lurk Where serpents are; chain me with roaring bears, Or shut me nightly in a charnel house, O’ercovered quite with dead men’s rattling bones, With reeky shanks and yellow chapless skulls; Or bid me go into a new-made grave And hide me with a dead man in his shroud— Things that, to hear them told, have made me tremble— And I will do it without fear or doubt, To live an unstained wife to my sweet love.

Friar Laurence. Hold, then. Go home, be merry, give consent To marry Paris. Wednesday is tomorrow. Tomorrow night look that thou lie alone: Let not the nurse lie with thee in thy chamber. Take thou this vial, being then in bed, And this distilled liquor drink thou off; When presently through all thy veins shall run A cold and drowsy humor; for no pulse Shall keep his native progress, but surcease; No warmth, no breath, shall testify thou livest; The roses in thy lips and cheeks shall fade To paly ashes, thy eyes’ windows fall Commonly Confused Words  The words council and counsel are easy to confuse. One means “advice” or “to advise”; the other refers to a group of people who advise, administrate, or govern. Which is which? What does counsel mean in line 61?

71–76 If, rather than . . . remedy: If you are desperate enough to kill yourself, then you’ll be daring enough to try the deathlike solution that I propose.

77–88 Juliet gives a lengthy list of things she would do rather than marry Paris. charnel house: a storehouse for bones from old graves; reeky shanks: stinking bones; chapless: without jaws. The description in lines 84–88 comes closer to Juliet’s future than she knows.

89–120 The friar explains his plan.
Like death when he shuts up the day of life;
Each part, deprived of supple government,
Shall, stiff and stark and cold, appear like death;
And in this borrowed likeness of shrunk death
Thou shalt continue two-and-forty hours,
And then awake as from a pleasant sleep.
Now, when the bridegroom in the morning comes
To rouse thee from thy bed, there art thou dead.
Then, as the manner of our country is,
In thy best robes uncovered on the bier
Thou shalt be borne to that same ancient vault
Where all the kindred of the Capulets lie.
In the meantime, against thou shalt awake,
Shall Romeo by my letters know our drift;
And hither shall he come; and he and I
Will watch thy waking, and that very night
Shall Romeo bear thee hence to Mantua.
And this shall free thee from this present shame,
If no inconstant toy nor womanish fear
Abate thy valor in the acting it.

Juliet. Give me, give me! O, tell me not of fear!

Friar Laurence. Hold! Get you gone, be strong and prosperous
In this resolve. I'll send a friar with speed
To Mantua, with my letters to thy lord.

Juliet. Love give me strength! and strength shall help afford.
Farewell, dear father.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE 2 Capulet's house.

Capulet is making plans for the wedding on Thursday. Juliet arrives and apologizes to him, saying that she will marry Paris. Capulet is so relieved that he reschedules the wedding for the next day, Wednesday.

[Enter Capulet, Lady Capulet, Nurse, and Servingmen.]

Capulet. So many guests invite as here are writ.

[Exit a Servingman.]

Sirrah, go hire me twenty cunning cooks.

Servingman. You shall have none ill, sir; for I'll try if they can lick their fingers.
5 Capulet. How canst thou try them so?

Servingman. Marry, sir, ’tis an ill cook that cannot lick his own fingers. Therefore he that cannot lick his fingers goes not with me. b

Capulet. Go, begone.

[Exit Servingman.]

10 We shall be much unfurnished for this time.

What, is my daughter gone to Friar Laurence?

Nurse. Ay, forsooth.

Capulet. Well, he may chance to do some good on her.

A peevish self-willed harlotry it is.

[Enter Juliet.]

15 Nurse. See where she comes from shrift with merry look.

Capulet. How now, my headstrong? Where have you been gadding?

Juliet. Where I have learnt me to repent the sin
Of disobedient opposition
To you and your behests, and am enjoined
By holy Laurence to fall prostrate here
To beg your pardon. Pardon, I beseech you!
Henceforward I am ever ruled by you.

Capulet. Send for the County. Go tell him of this.
I’ll have this knot knit up tomorrow morning.

20 Juliet. I met the youthful lord at Laurence’ cell
And gave him what becomed love I might,
Not stepping o’er the bounds of modesty.

Capulet. Why, I am glad on’t. This is well. Stand up.
This is as’t should be. Let me see the County.

Ay, marry, go, I say, and fetch him hither.
Now, afore God, this reverend holy friar,
All our whole city is much bound to him. c

Juliet. Nurse, will you go with me into my closet
To help me sort such needful ornaments
As you think fit to furnish me tomorrow?

Lady Capulet. No, not till Thursday. There is time enough.

Capulet. Go, nurse, go with her. We’ll to church tomorrow.

[Exeunt Juliet and Nurse.]
Lady Capulet. We shall be short in our provision. ’Tis now near night.

Capulet. Tush, I will stir about,

And all things shall be well, I warrant thee, wife. Go thou to Juliet, help to deck up her. I'll not to bed tonight; let me alone. I'll play the housewife for this once. What, ho! They are all forth; well, I will walk myself To County Paris, to prepare him up Against tomorrow. My heart is wondrous light, Since this same wayward girl is so reclaimed. [Exeunt.]

Scene 3 Juliet’s bedroom.

Juliet sends her mother and the nurse away and prepares to take the drug the friar has given her. She is confused and frightened but finally puts the vial to her lips and drinks.

[Enter Juliet and Nurse.]

Juliet. Ay, those attires are best; but, gentle nurse, I pray thee leave me to myself tonight; For I have need of many orisons To move the heavens to smile upon my state, Which, well thou knowest, is cross and full of sin. [Enter Lady Capulet.]

Lady Capulet. What, are you busy, ho? Need you my help?

Juliet. No madam; we have culled such necessaries As are behooveful for our state tomorrow. So please you, let me now be left alone, And let the nurse this night sit up with you; For I am sure you have your hands full all In this so sudden business.

Lady Capulet. Good night. Get thee to bed and rest, for thou hast need. [Exeunt Lady Capulet and Nurse.]

Juliet. Farewell! God knows when we shall meet again. I have a faint cold fear thrills through my veins That almost freezes up the heat of life. I'll call them back again to comfort me. Nurse!—What should she do here? My dismal scene I needs must act alone.
Promotion

Imagine that you knew nothing about the story of the star-crossed lovers. What clues about the play do each of these promotional posters provide? Which poster would most make you want to see the play? Explain your answers.
Come, vial.
What if this mixture do not work at all?
Shall I be married then tomorrow morning?
No, no! This shall forbid it. Lie thou there.

[lays down a dagger]
What if it be a poison which the friar
Subtly hath ministered to have me dead,
Lest in this marriage he should be dishonored
Because he married me before to Romeo?
I fear it is; and yet methinks it should not,
For he hath still been tried a holy man.

How if, when I am laid into the tomb,
I wake before the time that Romeo
Come to redeem me? There’s a fearful point!
Shall I not then be stifled in the vault,
To whose foul mouth no healthsome air breathes in,
And there die strangled ere my Romeo comes?
Or, if I live, is it not very like
The horrible conceit of death and night,
Together with the terror of the place—
As in a vault, an ancient receptacle
Where for this many hundred years the bones
Of all my buried ancestors are packed;
Where bloody Tybalt, yet but green in earth,
Lies fest’ring in his shroud; where, as they say,
At some hours in the night spirits resort—
Alack, alack, is it not like that I,
So early waking—what with loathsome smells,
And shrieks like mandrakes torn out of the earth,
That living mortals, hearing them, run mad—
O, if I wake, shall I not be distraught,
Environed with all these hideous fears,
And madly play with my forefathers’ joints,
And pluck the mangled Tybalt from his shroud,
And, in this rage, with some great kinsman’s bone
As with a club dash out my desp’rate brains?

O, look! methinks I see my cousin’s ghost
Seeking out Romeo, that did spit his body
Upon a rapier’s point. Stay, Tybalt, stay!
Romeo, I come! this do I drink to thee.

[She drinks and falls upon her bed within the curtains.]
SCENE 4 Capulet’s house.
It is now the next morning, nearly time for the wedding. The household is happy and excited as everyone makes final preparations.

[Enter Lady Capulet and Nurse.]
Lady Capulet. Hold, take these keys and fetch more spices, nurse.
Nurse. They call for dates and quinces in the pastry.
[Enter Capulet.]
Capulet. Come, stir, stir, stir! The second cock hath crowed, The curfew bell hath rung, ’tis three o’clock.
Look to the baked meats, good Angelica; Spare not for cost.
Nurse. Go, you cot-quean, go, Get you to bed! Faith, you’ll be sick tomorrow For this night’s watching.
Capulet. No, not a whit. What, I have watched ere now All night for lesser cause, and ne’er been sick.
Lady Capulet. Ay, you have been a mouse-hunt in your time; But I will watch you from such watching now.
[Exeunt Lady Capulet and Nurse.] Capulet. A jealous hood, a jealous hood!
[Enter three or four Servants, with spits and logs and baskets.]
Now, fellow, What is there?
First Servant. Things for the cook, sir; but I know not what.
Capulet. Make haste, make haste. [Exit Servant.] Sirrah, fetch drier logs. Call Peter; he will show thee where they are.
Second Servant. I have a head, sir, that will find out logs And never trouble Peter for the matter.
Capulet. Mass, and well said, merry whoreson, ha! Thou shalt be loggerhead. [Exit Servant.] Good faith, ’tis day. The County will be here with music straight, For so he said he would. [music within] I hear him near. Nurse! Wife! What, ho! What, nurse, I say!

2 pastry: the room where baking is done.
5 good Angelica: In his happy mood, Capulet even calls the nurse by her name.
6 cot-quean: The nurse playfully refers to Capulet as a “cottage quean,” or housewife. This is a joke about his doing women’s work (arranging the party).
11–13 Lord and Lady Capulet joke about his being a woman chaser (mouse-hunt) as a young man. He makes fun of her jealousy (jealous hood).
20–23 The joking between Capulet and his servants includes the mild oath Mass, short for “by the Mass,” and loggerhead, a word for a stupid person as well as a pun, since the servant is searching for drier logs. straight: right away.
Go waken Juliet; go and trim her up.
I'll go and chat with Paris. Hie, make haste,
Make haste! The bridegroom he is come already:
Make haste, I say.
[Exeunt.]

SCENE 5
Juliet’s bedroom.
The joyous preparations suddenly change into plans for a funeral when the nurse discovers Juliet on her bed, apparently dead. Lord and Lady Capulet, Paris, and the nurse are overcome with grief: Friar Laurence tries to comfort them and instructs them to bring Juliet’s body to the Capulet family tomb. The scene abruptly switches to humor, in a foolish conversation between the servant Peter and the musicians hired to play at the wedding.

[Enter Nurse.]
Nurse. Mistress! what, mistress! Juliet! Fast, I warrant her, she.
Why, lamb! why, lady! Fie, you slugabed!
Why, love, I say! madam! sweetheart! Why, bride!
What, not a word? You take your pennyworths now,
Sleep for a week; for the next night, I warrant,
The County Paris hath set up his rest
That you shall rest but little. God forgive me,
Marry and amen, how sound is she asleep!
I needs must wake her. Madam, madam, madam!
Aye, let the County take you in your bed,
He’ll fright you up, i’ faith. Will it not be?
[opens the curtains]
What, dressed and in your clothes and down again?
I must needs wake you. Lady! lady! lady!
Alas, alas! Help, help! my lady’s dead!
O well-a-day that ever I was born!
Some aqua vitae, ho! My lord! my lady!
[Enter Lady Capulet.]
Lady Capulet. What noise is here?

Nurse. O lamentable day!

Lady Capulet. What is the matter?

Nurse. Look, look! O heavy day!

Lady Capulet. O me, O me! My child, my only life!
Revive, look up, or I will die with thee!
Help! help! Call help.

1–11 The nurse chatters as she bustles around the room. She calls Juliet a slugabed, or sleepyhead, who is trying to get her pennyworths, or small portions, of rest now, since after the wedding Paris won’t let her get much sleep. When Juliet doesn’t answer, the nurse opens the curtains that enclose the bed.

17 lamentable: filled with grief.
[Enter Capulet.]

Capulet. For shame, bring Juliet forth; her lord is come.

Nurse. She’s dead, deceased; she’s dead! Alack the day!

Lady Capulet. Alack the day, she’s dead, she’s dead, she’s dead!

Capulet. Ha! let me see her. Out alas! she’s cold,
Her blood is settled, and her joints are stiff;
Life and these lips have long been separated.
Death lies on her like an untimely frost
Upon the sweetest flower of all the field.

Nurse. O lamentable day!

Lady Capulet. O woeful time!

Capulet. Death, that hath ta’en her hence to make me wail,
Ties up my tongue and will not let me speak.

[Enter Friar Laurence and Paris, with Musicians.]

Friar Laurence. Come, is the bride ready to go to church?
Capulet. Ready to go, but never to return.

O son, the night before thy wedding day
Hath death lain with thy wife. See, there she lies,
Flower as she was, deflowered by him.
Death is my son-in-law, Death is my heir;
My daughter he hath wedded. I will die
And leave him all. Life, living, all is Death’s.

Paris. Have I thought long to see this morning’s face,
And doth it give me such a sight as this?

Lady Capulet. Accursed, unhappy, wretched, hateful day!
Most miserable hour that e’er time saw
In lasting labor of his pilgrimage!
But one, poor one, one poor and loving child,
But one thing to rejoice and solace in,
And cruel Death hath catched it from my sight!

Nurse. O woe! O woeful, woeful, woeful day!
Most lamentable day, most woeful day
That ever, ever I did yet behold!
O day! O day! O day! O hateful day!
Never was seen so black a day as this.
O woeful day! O woeful day!

Paris. Beguiled, divorced, wronged, spited, slain!
Most detestable Death, by thee beguiled,
By cruel, cruel thee quite overthrown!
O love! O life! not life, but love in death!

Capulet. Despised, distressed, hated, martyred, killed!

Uncomfortable time, why camest thou now
To murder, murder our solemnity?
O child! O child! my soul, and not my child!
Dead art thou, dead! alack, my child is dead,
And with my child my joys are buried!

Friar Laurence. Peace, ho, for shame! Confusion’s cure lives not
In these confusions. Heaven and yourself
Had part in this fair maid! now heaven hath all,
And all the better is it for the maid.
Your part in her you could not keep from death,
But heaven keeps his part in eternal life.
The most you sought was her promotion,
For ’twas your heaven she should be advanced;
And weep ye now, seeing she is advanced
Above the clouds, as high as heaven itself?
O, in this love, you love your child so ill
That you run mad, seeing that she is well.
She’s not well married that lives married long,
But she’s best married that dies married young.
Dry up your tears and stick your rosemary
On this fair corse, and, as the custom is,
In all her best array bear her to church;
For though fond nature bids us all lament,
Yet nature’s tears are reason’s merriment.

Capulet. All things that we ordained festival
Turn from their office to black funeral—
Our instruments to melancholy bells,
Our wedding cheer to a sad burial feast;
Our solemn hymns to sullen dirges change;
Our bridal flowers serve for a buried corse;
And all things change them to the contrary.

Friar Laurence. Sir, go you in; and, madam, go with him;
And go, Sir Paris. Every one prepare
To follow this fair corse unto her grave.
The heavens do lower upon you for some ill;
Move them no more by crossing their high will.

[Exeunt Capulet, Lady Capulet, Paris, and Friar.]

First Musician. Faith, we may put up our pipes, and be gone.

Nurse. Honest good fellows, ah, put up, put up,
For well you know this is a pitiful case.
[Exit.]

Second Musician. Aye, by my troth, the case may be amended.
[Enter Peter.]

Peter. Musicians, oh, musicians, “Heart’s ease, heart’s ease.” Oh, an you will have me live, play “Heart’s ease.”

First Musician. Why “Heart’s ease”?

Peter. Oh, musicians, because my heart itself plays “My heart is full of woe.” Oh, play me some merry dump, to comfort me.

First Musician. Not a dump we, ’tis no time to play now.

Peter. You will not, then?

First Musician. No.

Peter. I will then give it you soundly.
First Musician. What will you give us?

Peter. No money, on my faith, but the gleek. I will give you the minstrel.

First Musician. Then will I give you the serving creature.

Peter. Then will I lay the serving creature’s dagger on your pate. I will carry no crotchets. I’ll re you, I’ll fa you, do you note me?

First Musician. An you re us and fa us, you note us.

Second Musician. Pray you put up your dagger, and put out your wit.

Peter. Then have at you with my wit! I will drybeat you with an iron wit, and put up my iron dagger. Answer me like men:

“When griping grief the heart doth wound
And doleful dumps the mind oppress,
Then music with her silver sound—”

Why “silver sound”? Why “music with her silver sound”?—What say you, Simon Catling?

First Musician. Marry, sir, because silver hath a sweet sound.

Peter. Pretty! What say you, Hugh Rebeck?

Second Musician. I say “silver sound” because musicians sound for silver.

Peter. Pretty too! What say you, James Soundpost?

Third Musician. Faith, I know not what to say.

Peter. Oh, I cry you mercy, you are the singer. I will say for you. It is “music with her silver sound” because musicians have no gold for sounding.

“Then music with her silver sound
With speedy help doth lend redress.”

[Exit.]

First Musician. What a pestilent knave is this same!

Second Musician. Hang him, Jack! Come, we’ll in here. Tarry for the mourners, and stay dinner.

[Exeunt.]
Comprehension

1. Recall  What reason does Paris give for Lord Capulet’s decision to move up the wedding?

2. Recall  At first, what does Juliet believe is the only solution to her problem?

3. Summarize  What plan does Friar Laurence devise for Juliet, and what reservations does Juliet have about this plan?

Literary Analysis

4. Reading Shakespearean Drama  Review the events you recorded as you read Act Four, and think about how the characters’ interactions drive the plot forward. If the nurse had accompanied Juliet to Friar Laurence’s cell, do you think Juliet would have made a different decision? Explain.

5. Make Judgments  Do you feel sympathy for the Capulets, the nurse, and Paris when they express grief over Juliet’s death? Why or why not?

6. Identify Dramatic Irony  Dramatic irony exists when the reader or viewer knows something that one or more of the characters do not. Find three examples of dramatic irony in Act Four and record them in a chart like the one shown. Then explain how these ironic moments contribute to the building tension in the play.

7. Recognize Protagonist and Antagonist  If Romeo and Juliet are the protagonists of this play, who or what is the antagonist? Keep in mind that an antagonist can be a character, a group of characters, a set of circumstances, or even society as a whole. Use details from the play to support your answer.

8. Evaluate Comic Relief  The humorous exchange between Peter and the musicians at the end of Act Four is an example of comic relief. It lightens the mood after the grief-filled speeches that follow the discovery of Juliet’s body. If you were producing a stage or film version of Romeo and Juliet, would you cut this passage, or do you think it serves an important purpose? Explain.

9. Different Perspectives  How might older and younger audiences differ in their assessment of Romeo’s and Juliet’s actions? Explain your opinion, citing specific actions and interactions in the play.
Act Five

SCENE 1  A street in Mantua.

Balthasar, Romeo's servant, comes from Verona to tell him that Juliet is dead and lies in the Capulets' tomb. Since Romeo has not yet received any word from the friar, he believes Balthasar. He immediately decides to return to Verona in order to die next to Juliet. He sends Balthasar away and sets out to find a pharmacist who will sell him poison.

[Enter Romeo.]

Romeo. If I may trust the flattering truth of sleep, My dreams presage some joyful news at hand. My bosom's lord sits lightly in his throne, And all this day an unaccustomed spirit Lifts me above the ground with cheerful thoughts. I dreamt my lady came and found me dead (Strange dream that gives a dead man leave to think!) And breathed such life with kisses in my lips That I revived and was an emperor. Ah me! how sweet is love itself possessed, When but love's shadows are so rich in joy! [Enter Romeo's servant, Balthasar, booted.]

News from Verona! How now, Balthasar? Dost thou not bring me letters from the friar? How doth my lady? Is my father well? How fares my Juliet? That I ask again, For nothing can be ill if she be well.

Balthasar. Then she is well, and nothing can be ill. Her body sleeps in Capels' monument, And her immortal part with angels lives. I saw her laid low in her kindred's vault And presently took post to tell it you. O, pardon me for bringing these ill news, Since you did leave it for my office, sir.

Romeo. Is it e'en so? Then I defy you, stars! Thou knowst my lodging. Get me ink and paper And hire posthorses. I will hence tonight.

Balthasar. I do beseech you, sir, have patience. Your looks are pale and wild and do import Some misadventure.

1–5  If I may . . . cheerful thoughts: If I can trust my dreams; something joyful is about to happen. My heart (bosom's lord) is happy and I am content.

17–19  Balthasar replies that Juliet is well, since although her body lies in the Capulets' (Capels') burial vault, her soul (her immortal part) is with the angels.

21  presently took post: immediately rode (to Mantua).

23  you did . . . office: you gave me the duty of reporting important news to you.

24  I . . . stars: Romeo angrily challenges fate, which has caused him so much grief.

28–29  import some misadventure: suggest that something bad will happen.
Romeo.       Tush, thou art deceived.
30  Leave me and do the thing I bid thee do.
Hast thou no letters to me from the friar?
Balthasar. No, my good lord.
Romeo.       No matter. Get thee gone
And hire those horses. I’ll be with thee straight.

[Exit Balthasar.]
Well, Juliet, I will lie with thee tonight.

Let’s see for means. O mischief, thou art swift
To enter in the thoughts of desperate men!
I do remember an apothecary,
And hereabouts he dwells, which late I noted
In tattered weeds, with overwhelming brows,
Culling of simples. Meager were his looks,
Sharp misery had worn him to the bones;
And in his needy shop a tortoise hung,
An alligator stuffed, and other skins
Of ill-shaped fishes; and about his shelves
A beggarly account of empty boxes,
Green earthen pots, bladders, and musty seeds,
Remnants of packthread, and old cakes of roses
Were thinly scattered, to make up a show.
Noting this penury, to myself I said,

“An if a man did need a poison now
Whose sale is present death in Mantua,
Here lives a caitiff wretch would sell it him.”
O, this same thought did but forerun my need,
And this same needy man must sell it me.

As I remember, this should be the house.
Being holiday, the beggar’s shop is shut.
What, ho! apothecary!

[Enter Apothecary.]

Apothecary.    Who calls so loud?
Romeo. Come hither, man. I see that thou art poor.
Hold, there is forty ducats. Let me have
A dram of poison, such soon-speeding gear
As will disperse itself through all the veins
That the life-weary taker may fall dead,
And that the trunk may be discharged of breath
As violently as hasty powder fired

Apothecary. Such mortal drugs I have; but Mantua’s law
Is death to any he that utters them.
Romeo. Art thou so bare and full of wretchedness
And fearest to die? Famine is in thy cheeks,
Need and oppression starveth in thine eyes,
Contempt and beggary hangs upon thy back:
The world is not thy friend, nor the world's law;
The world affords no law to make thee rich;
Then be not poor, but break it and take this.

Apothecary. My poverty but not my will consents.

Romeo. I pay thy poverty and not thy will.

Apothecary. Put this in any liquid thing you will
And drink it off, and if you had the strength
Of twenty men, it would dispatch you straight.

Romeo. There is thy gold—worse poison to men's souls,
Doing more murder in this loathsome world,
Than these poor compounds that thou mayst not sell.
I sell thee poison; thou hast sold me none.
Farewell. Buy food and get thyself in flesh.

Come, cordial and not poison, go with me
To Juliet's grave; for there must I use thee.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE 2     Friar Laurence's cell in Verona.

Friar Laurence's messenger arrives, saying that he was unable to deliver the letter to Romeo. Friar Laurence, his plans ruined, rushes to the Capulet vault before Juliet awakes. He intends to hide her in his room until Romeo can come to take her away.

[Enter Friar John.]

Friar John. Holy Franciscan friar, brother, ho!

[Enter Friar Laurence.]

Friar Laurence. This same should be the voice of Friar John.
Welcome from Mantua. What says Romeo?
Or, if his mind be writ, give me his letter.

Friar John. Going to find a barefoot brother out,
One of our order to associate me,
Here in this city visiting the sick,
And finding him, the searchers of the town,
Suspecting that we both were in a house
Where the infectious pestilence did reign,
Sealed up the doors, and would not let us forth,
So that my speed to Mantua there was stayed.

72–74 Romeo urges the apothecary to improve his situation by breaking the law and selling him the poison.

75 I'm doing this for the money, not because I think it's right.

79 dispatch you straight: kill you instantly.

85 Romeo refers to the poison as a cordial, a drink believed to be good for the heart. Why does he refer to it in this way?
Friar Laurence. Who bare my letter, then, to Romeo?

Friar John. I could not send it—here it is again—
Nor get a messenger to bring it thee,
So fearful were they of infection.

Friar Laurence. Unhappy fortune! By my brotherhood,
The letter was not nice, but full of charge,
Of dear import, and the neglecting it
May do much danger. Friar John, go hence,
Get me an iron crow and bring it straight
Unto my cell.

Friar John. Brother, I’ll go and bring it thee.

[Exit.]

Friar Laurence. Now must I to the monument alone.
Within this three hours will fair Juliet wake.

She will beshrew me much that Romeo
Hath had no notice of these accidents;
But I will write again to Mantua,
And keep her at my cell till Romeo come—
Poor living corse, closed in a dead man’s tomb!

[Exit.]

SCENE 3  The cemetery that contains the Capulets’ tomb.

In the dark of night Paris comes to the cemetery to put flowers on Juliet’s grave.
At the same time Romeo arrives, and Paris hides. Paris assumes that Romeo is going to harm the bodies. He challenges Romeo, they fight, and Romeo kills Paris. When Romeo recognizes the dead Paris, he lays his body inside the tomb as Paris requested. Romeo declares his love for Juliet, drinks the poison, and dies. Shortly after, Friar Laurence arrives and discovers both bodies. When Juliet wakes up, the friar urges her to leave with him before the guard comes.
Juliet refuses, and when the friar leaves, she kills herself with Romeo’s dagger.
The guards and the prince arrive, followed by the Capulets and Lord Montague, whose wife has just died of grief because of Romeo’s exile. Friar Laurence explains what has happened. Capulet and Montague finally end their feud and promise to erect statues honoring Romeo and Juliet.

[Enter Paris and his Page with flowers and a torch.]

Yet put it out, for I would not be seen.
Under yond yew tree lay thee all along,
Holding thine ear close to the hollow ground.

1 aloof: some distance away.

Lighting

Directors use a variety of techniques to make a play’s lighting effective. For example, spotlights can illuminate one character while leaving others in semidarkness, and effects such as candles or prominent shadows can help create specific moods. What is distinctive about the lighting in each of these shots? Explain the effect each technique produces.
So shall no foot upon the churchyard tread
(Being loose, unfirm, with digging up of graves)
But thou shalt hear it. Whistle then to me,
As signal that thou hearest something approach.
Give me those flowers. Do as I bid thee, go.

Page [aside]. I am almost afraid to stand alone
Here in the churchyard; yet I will adventure.

[withdraws]

Paris. Sweet flower, with flowers thy bridal bed I strew
[He strews the tomb with flowers.]
(O woe! thy canopy is dust and stones)
Which with sweet water nightly I will dew;
Or, wanting that, with tears distilled by moans.
The obsequies that I for thee will keep Nightly shall be to strew thy grave and weep.
[The Page whistles.]
The boy gives warning something doth approach.
What cursed foot wanders this way tonight
To cross my obsequies and true love’s rite?
What, with a torch? Muffle me, night, awhile.

[withdraws]

[Enter Romeo and Balthasar with a torch, a mattock, and a crow of iron.]

Romeo. Give me that mattock and the wrenching iron.
Hold, take this letter. Early in the morning
See thou deliver it to my lord and father.
Give me the light. Upon thy life I charge thee,
Whate’er thou hearest or seest, stand all aloof
And do not interrupt me in my course.
Why I descend into this bed of death
Is partly to behold my lady’s face,
But chiefly to take thence from her dead finger
A precious ring—a ring that I must use
In dear employment. Therefore hence, be gone.
But if thou, jealous, dost return to pry
In what I farther shall intend to do,
By heaven, I will tear thee joint by joint
And strew this hungry churchyard with thy limbs.
The time and my intents are savage-wild,
More fierce and more inexorable far
Than empty tigers or the roaring sea.
Balthasar. I will be gone, sir, and not trouble you.

Romeo. So shalt thou show me friendship. Take thou that. Live, and be prosperous; and farewell, good fellow.

Balthasar [aside]. For all this same, I’ll hide me hereabout. His looks I fear, and his intents I doubt.

[withdraws]

Romeo. Thou detestable maw, thou womb of death,
Gorged with the dearest morsel of the earth,
Thus I enforce thy rotten jaws to open,
And in despite I’ll cram thee with more food.

[Romeo opens the tomb.]

Paris. This is that banish’d haughty Montague
That murdered my love’s cousin—with which grief
It is supposed the fair creature died—
And here is come to do some villainous shame
To the dead bodies. I will apprehend him.
Stop thy unhallowed toil, vile Montague!

Can vengeance be pursued further than death?
Condemned villain, I do apprehend thee.
Obey, and go with me; for thou must die.

Romeo. I must indeed; and therefore came I hither.
Good gentle youth, tempt not a desp’rate man.
Fly hence and leave me. Think upon these gone;
Let them affright thee. I beseech thee, youth,
Put not another sin upon my head
By urging me to fury. O, be gone!
By heaven, I love thee better than myself.

For I come hither armed against myself.
Stay not, be gone. Live, and hereafter say
A madman’s mercy bid thee run away.

Paris. I do defy thy conjuration
And apprehend thee for a felon here.

Romeo. Wilt thou provoke me? Then have at thee, boy! [They fight.]
Page. O Lord, they fight! I will go call the watch.
[Exit.]

Paris. O, I am slain! [falls] If thou be merciful,
Open the tomb, lay me with Juliet.
[dies]

Romeo. In faith, I will. Let me peruse this face.
Mercutio's kinsman, noble County Paris!
What said my man when my betossed soul
Did not attend him as we rode? I think
He told me Paris should have married Juliet.
Said he not so? or did I dream it so?
Or am I mad, hearing him talk of Juliet,
To think it was so? O, give me thy hand,
One writ with me in sour misfortune's book!
I'll bury thee in a triumphant grave.
A grave? O, no, a lantern, slaughtered youth,
For here lies Juliet, and her beauty makes
This vault a feasting presence full of light.
Death, lie thou there, by a dead man interred.
[lays Paris in the tomb]

How oft when men are at the point of death
Have they been merry! which their keepers call
A lightning before death. O, how may I
Call this a lightning? O my love! my wife!
Death, that hath sucked the honey of thy breath,
Hath had no power yet upon thy beauty.
Thou art not conquered. Beauty's ensign yet
Is crimson in thy lips and in thy cheeks,
And death's pale flag is not advanced there.
Tybalt, liest thou there in thy bloody sheet?
O, what more favor can I do to thee
Than with that hand that cut thy youth in twain
To sunder his that was thine enemy?
Forgive me, cousin! Ah, dear Juliet,
Why art thou yet so fair? Shall I believe
That unsubstantial Death is amorous,
And that the lean abhorred monster keeps
Thee here in dark to be his paramour?
For fear of that I still will stay with thee
And never from this palace of dim night

74–78 Romeo discovers that the man he has just killed is Paris, who he vaguely remembers being told was supposed to marry Juliet.

82 Romeo notes that, like himself, Paris has been a victim of bad luck.

84–87 Romeo will bury Paris with Juliet, whose beauty fills the tomb with light. Paris’ corpse (Death) is being buried (interred) by a dead man in that Romeo expects to be dead soon.

94 ensign: sign.

98–100 O, what . . . enemy: I can best repay you (Tybalt) by killing your enemy (myself) with the same hand that cut your youth in two (twain).

102–105 Romeo can’t get over how beautiful Juliet still looks. He asks whether Death is loving (amorous) and whether it has taken Juliet as its lover (paramour).
Depart again. Here, here will I remain
With worms that are thy chambermaids. O, here
Will I set up my everlasting rest
And shake the yoke of inauspicious stars
From this world-wearied flesh. Eyes, look your last!
Arms, take your last embrace! and, lips, O you
The doors of breath, seal with a righteous kiss
A dateless bargain to engrossing death!
Come, bitter conduct; come, unsavory guide!
Thou desperate pilot, now at once run on
The dashing rocks thy seasick weary bark!
Here's to my love! [drinks] O true apothecary!
Thy drugs are quick. Thus with a kiss I die.

[falls]
[Enter Friar Laurence, with lantern, crow, and spade.]

Friar Laurence. Saint Francis be my speed! how oft tonight
Have my old feet stumbled at graves! Who's there?
Balthasar. Here's one, a friend, and one that knows you well.

Friar Laurence. Bliss be upon you! Tell me, good my friend,
What torch is yond that vainly lends his light
To grubs and eyeless skulls? As I discern,
It burneth in the Capels' monument.

Balthasar. It doth so, holy sir; and there's my master,
One that you love.

Friar Laurence. Who is it?

Balthasar. Romeo.

Friar Laurence. How long hath he been there?

Balthasar. Full half an hour.

Friar Laurence. Go with me to the vault.

Balthasar. I dare not, sir.

My master knows not but I am gone hence,
And fearfully did menace me with death
If I did stay to look on his intents.

Friar Laurence. Stay then; I'll go alone. Fear comes upon me.
O, much I fear some ill unthrifty thing.

Language Coach

Oral Fluency In line 125, yond is short for yonder, meaning “over there.” Why is yond better than yonder in this line?

111–112 shake ... flesh: rid myself of the burden of an unhappy fate (inauspicious stars). On what does Romeo blame his imminent death?

115 dateless: eternal; never-ending. Romeo means that what he is about to do can never be undone.

117–118 Romeo compares himself to the pilot of a ship (bark) who is going to crash on the rocks because he is so weary and sick.

124 Friar Laurence: Saint Francis be my speed! how oft tonight Have my old feet stumbled at graves! Who’s there?

125 Balthasar. Here’s one, a friend, and one that knows you well.

128 Friar Laurence. Bliss be upon you! Tell me, good my friend, What torch is yond that vainly lends his light To grubs and eyeless skulls? As I discern, It burneth in the Capels’ monument.

130 Friar Laurence. How long hath he been there?

132–134 My master ... intents: My master told me to go away and threatened me with death if I watched what he did.

136 unthrifty: unlucky.
Balthasar. As I did sleep under this yew tree here,
I dreamt my master and another fought,
And that my master slew him.

Friar Laurence. Romeo!

[toops and looks on the blood and weapons]

Alack, alack, what blood is this which stains
The stony entrance of this sepulcher?
What mean these masterless and gory swords
To lie discolored by this place of peace?

[enters the tomb]
Romeo! O, pale! Who else? What, Paris too?
And steeped in blood? Ah, what an unkind hour
Is guilty of this lamentable chance!
The lady stirs.

[Juliet rises.]

Juliet. O comfortable friar! where is my lord?
I do remember well where I should be,
And there I am. Where is my Romeo?

Friar Laurence. I hear some noise. Lady, come from that nest

140–143 Alack . . . place of peace? Why are these bloody swords lying here at the tomb (sepulcher), a place that should be peaceful? (The swords are also masterless, or without their owners.)

148 comfortable: comforting.
Of death, contagion, and unnatural sleep.
A greater power than we can contradict
Hath thwarted our intents. Come, come away.
Thy husband in thy bosom there lies dead;
And Paris too. Come, I'll dispose of thee
Among a sisterhood of holy nuns.
Stay not to question, for the watch is coming.
Come, go, good Juliet. I dare no longer stay.

Juliet. Go, get thee hence, for I will not away.

[Exit Friar Laurence.]

What's here? A cup, closed in my true love's hand?
Poison, I see, hath been his timeless end.
O churl! drunk all, and left no friendly drop
To help me after? I will kiss thy lips.

Haply some poison yet doth hang on them
To make me die with a restorative.
[kisses him]
Thy lips are warm!

Chief Watchman [within]. Lead, boy. Which way?
Juliet. Yea, noise? Then I'll be brief. O happy dagger!
[snatches Romeo’s dagger]

This is thy sheath; there rust, and let me die.
[She stabs herself and falls.]
[Enter Watchmen with the Page of Paris.]

Page. This is the place. There, where the torch doth burn.

Chief Watchman. The ground is bloody. Search about the churchyard.
Go, some of you; whoe'er you find attach.
[Exeunt some of the Watch.]
Pitiful sight! here lies the County slain;
And Juliet bleeding, warm, and newly dead,
Who here hath lain this two days buried.
Go, tell the Prince; run to the Capulets;
Raise up the Montagues; some others search.
[Exeunt others of the Watch.]

We see the ground whereon these woes do lie,
But the true ground of all these piteous woes
We cannot without circumstance descry.
[Reenter some of the Watch, with Balthasar.]

153–154 A greater . . . intents: A greater force than we can fight (contradict) has ruined our plans (thwarted our intents).
156–157 I'll dispose . . . nuns: I'll find a place for you in a convent of nuns.
158–159 Why is the friar so anxious to leave?
162 timeless: happening before its proper time.
163 churl: miser.
165 haply: perhaps.
173 attach: arrest.
178 raise up: awaken.
179–181 We see . . . descry: We see the earth (ground) these bodies lie on. But the real cause (true ground) of these deaths is yet for us to discover (descry).
Second Watchman. Here’s Romeo’s man. We found him in the churchyard.

Chief Watchman. Hold him in safety till the Prince come hither.

[Reenter Friar Laurence and another Watchman.]

Third Watchman. Here is a friar that trembles, sighs, and weeps.

We took this mattock and this spade from him As he was coming from this churchyard side.

Chief Watchman. A great suspicion! Stay the friar too.

[Enter the Prince and Attendants.]

Prince. What misadventure is so early up, That calls our person from our morning rest?

[Enter Capulet, Lady Capulet, and others.]

Capulet. What should it be, that they so shriek abroad?

Lady Capulet. The people in the street cry “Romeo,” Some “Juliet,” and some “Paris”; and all run, With open outcry, toward our monument.

Prince. What fear is this which startles in our ears?

Chief Watchman. Sovereign, here lies the County Paris slain; And Romeo dead, and Juliet, dead before, Warm and new killed.

Prince. Search, seek, and know how this foul murder comes.

Chief Watchman. Here is a friar, and slaughtered Romeo’s man, With instruments upon them fit to open These dead men’s tombs.

Capulet. O heavens! O wife, look how our daughter bleeds! This dagger hath misa’en, for, lo, his house Is empty on the back of Montague,

And it misheathed in my daughter’s bosom!

Lady Capulet. O me! this sight of death is as a bell That warns my old age to a sepulcher.

[Enter Montague and others.]

Prince. Come, Montague; for thou art early up To see thy son and heir now early down.

Montague. Alas, my liege, my wife is dead tonight! Grief of my son’s exile hath stopped her breath. What further woe conspires against mine age?

Prince. Look, and thou shalt see.

Montague. O thou untaught! what manners is in this, To press before thy father to a grave?
Prince. Seal up the mouth of outrage for a while,
Till we can clear these ambiguities
And know their spring, their head, their true descent;
And then will I be general of your woes
And lead you even to death. Meantime forbear,
And let mischance be slave to patience.
Bring forth the parties of suspicion.

Friar Laurence. I am the greatest, able to do least,
Yet most suspected, as the time and place
Doth make against me, of this direful murder;
And here I stand, both to impeach and purge
Myself condemned and myself excused.

Prince. Then say at once what thou dost know in this.

Friar Laurence. I will be brief, for my short date of breath
Is not so long as is a tedious tale.
Romeo, there dead, was husband to that Juliet;
And she, there dead, that Romeo's faithful wife.
I married them; and their stol'n marriage day
Was Tybalt's doomsday, whose untimely death
Banish'd the new-made bridegroom from this city;
For whom, and not for Tybalt, Juliet pined.

You, to remove that siege of grief from her,
Betrothed and would have married her perforce
To County Paris. Then comes she to me
And with wild looks bid me devise some mean
To rid her from this second marriage,
Or in my cell there would she kill herself.
Then gave I her (so tutored by my art)
A sleeping potion; which so took effect
As I intended, for it wrought on her
The form of death. Meantime I writ to Romeo
That he should hither come as this dire night
To help to take her from her borrowed grave,
Being the time the potion's force should cease.
But he which bore my letter, Friar John,
Was stayed by accident, and yesternight
Returned my letter back. Then all alone
At the prefixed hour of her waking
Came I to take her from her kindred's vault;
Meaning to keep her closely at my cell
Till I conveniently could send to Romeo.
But when I came, some minute ere the time
Of her awaking, here untimely lay
The noble Paris and true Romeo dead.
She wakes; and I entreated her come forth

Multiple Meanings

The word date means something other than “day of the month” in line 229; it means “the length of time something lasts.” What does Friar Laurence mean by “my short date of breath”?

236 It was Romeo's banishment, not Tybalt's death, that made Juliet so sad.

248 borrowed: temporary.

254 kindred's: family's.
And bear this work of heaven with patience;
But then a noise did scare me from the tomb,
And she, too desperate, would not go with me,
But, as it seems, did violence on herself.

All this I know, and to the marriage
Her nurse is privy; and if aught in this Miscarried by my fault, let my old life
Be sacrificed, some hour before his time,
Unto the rigor of severest law.

Prince. We still have known thee for a holy man.
Where’s Romeo’s man? What can he say in this?

Balthasar. I brought my master news of Juliet’s death;
And then in post he came from Mantua
To this same place, to this same monument.

This letter he early bid me give his father,
And threatened me with death, going in the vault,
If I departed not and left him there.

Prince. Give me the letter. I will look on it.
Where is the County’s page that raised the watch?

Page. He came with flowers to strew his lady’s grave;
And bid me stand aloof, and so I did.
Anon comes one with light to ope the tomb;
And by-and-by my master drew on him;
And then I ran away to call the watch.

Prince. This letter doth make good the friar’s words,
Their course of love, the tidings of her death;
And here he writes that he did buy a poison
Of a poor ’pothecary, and therewithal
Came to this vault to die and lie with Juliet.

Where be these enemies? Capulet, Montague,
See what a scourge is laid upon your hate,
That heaven finds means to kill your joys with love!
And I, for winking at your discords too,
Have lost a brace of kinsmen. All are punished.

Capulet. O brother Montague, give me thy hand.
This is my daughter’s jointure, for no more
Can I demand.

265–269 and to . . . law: Her nurse can bear witness to this secret marriage. If I am responsible for any of this, let the law punish me with death.

270 How does the Prince respond to the friar’s acceptance of blame?

273 in post: at full speed.

279–280 The Prince asks for Paris’ servant, who notified the guards (raised the watch). Then he asks the servant why Paris was at the cemetery.

283–285 Anon . . . call the watch: Soon (anon) someone with a light came and opened the tomb. Paris drew his sword, and I ran to call the guards.

292–295 See what . . . punished: Look at the punishment your hatred has brought on you. Heaven has killed your children (joys) with love. For shutting my eyes to your arguments (discords), I have lost two relatives. We have all been punished.

TRAGEDY
Reread lines 291–295. On what does the prince blame all the deaths? What theme, or message, might this passage suggest?

297–298 jointure: dowry, the payment a bride’s father traditionally made to the groom. Capulet means that no one could demand more of a bride’s father than he has already paid.
Montague. But I can give thee more;
For I will raise her statue in pure gold,
That whiles Verona by that name is known,
There shall no figure at such rate be set
As that of true and faithful Juliet.

Capulet. As rich shall Romeo’s by his lady’s lie—
Poor sacrifices of our enmity!

Prince. A glooming peace this morning with it brings.
The sun for sorrow will not show his head.
Go hence, to have more talk of these sad things;
Some shall be pardoned, and some punished;
For never was a story of more woe
Than this of Juliet and her Romeo.

[Exeunt.]
Comprehension

1. Recall What prevents Friar John from delivering the letter to Romeo?

2. Recall Why does Paris attack Romeo at the Capulets’ tomb?

3. Summarize How do the bodies of Paris, Romeo, and Juliet all end up in the Capulets’ tomb? Explain how each character loses his or her life.

Literary Analysis

4. Reading Shakespearean Drama In Shakespearean drama, the resolution, or final plot stage, occurs in the last act. Look back at the chart you completed as you read. Describe the events that make up the resolution of this tragedy. Do you think this sequence of events brings the play to a satisfying conclusion? Explain.

5. Make Judgments In the play’s final speech, Prince Escalus declares, “Some shall be pardoned, and some punished.” If you were the ruler of Verona, whom would you pardon, and whom would you punish? Explain.

6. Identify Soliloquy Identify a soliloquy in Act Five. Citing specific lines of the play, explain what you learn about the character who is speaking.

7. Analyze Tragedy In a tragedy, the hero or heroine usually has a character flaw that leads to his or her downfall. Is this true of Romeo and Juliet? Cite evidence from the tragedy to support your explanation.

8. Examine Universal Theme Many of the themes in Romeo and Juliet are universal, meaning they are still relevant today. Examine the values and experiences shown, and think about how each is presented in Romeo and Juliet. Complete the chart by stating how each topic is conveyed as a theme in the play.

Literary Criticism

9. Critical Interpretations About Romeo and Juliet, the critic F. M. Dickey maintains, “love overshadows [hate] dramatically, since it is the passion of the protagonists and since Shakespeare has lavished his most moving poetry upon the love scenes.” Do you agree? Support your conclusion with evidence.

◆ GRAMMAR AND STYLE: Create Rhythm

Review the Grammar and Style note on page 1066. Parallelism is the repetition of grammatical structures—phrases or clauses, for example. Shakespeare’s use of parallelism creates cadence, or a balanced, rhythmic flow. Here are two examples from the play. The first contains a series of four past-tense verbs, each followed by the word for. In the second, Shakespeare uses the three parallel adjectives stiff, stark, and cold. Think about how these passages might sound without the parallelism.

First Servingman. You are looked for and called for, asked for and sought for, in the great chamber. (Act One, Scene 5, lines 10–11)

Friar Laurence. . . . Each part, deprived of supple government, shall, stiff and stark and cold, appear like death; (Act Four, Scene 1, lines 102–103)

Now consider how the revision in blue makes use of parallelism to improve the rhythm of this first draft. Revise your response to the prompt below by using parallelism whenever possible.

STUDENT MODEL

Goodbye my love, I am going to die.

Farewell my love

Take care my dear, I leave you forever.

READING-WRITING CONNECTION

Increase your understanding of The Tragedy of Romeo and Juliet by responding to this prompt. Then use the revising tip to improve your writing.

WRITING PROMPT

Short Response: Write A Blank Verse Poem

What if Romeo had taken slower-acting poison? Imagine that Juliet wakes before the poison kills Romeo, so that he is able to utter his last words of love to her. Write six to eight lines of a short blank verse poem in which Romeo says goodbye to Juliet before dying.

REVISING TIP

Review your poem. Does your poem have a balanced, rhythmic flow? If not, consider using parallelism to create cadence.
